The following recommendations and information for 1970 herbicide use in vegetable production are offered by Professor C. G. Waywell, Department of Horticultural Science, Ontario Agricultural College, University of Guelph.

Prometryne and linuron are still the best herbicides to use on the carrot crop. On muck soils, prometryne used as a pre emergence treatment provides less control than linuron, but there has been no damage recorded after eight years of testing with prometryne.

It does not control all weed species found on a marsh, but when applied as a pre emergence treatment, followed by linuron after the crop is more than three inches high, it has rendered the crop weed-free for the remainder of the season.

Prometryne applied as directed in the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food Publication 363, 1970 Vegetable Production Recommendations, has provided weed-free conditions for the celery crop after several years of trials on the Bradford Marsh.

Naptalam (or Alanap-3) is the only herbicide that can be recommended for cucumbers. Although other chemicals have been tried, nothing else can be recommended for this crop at this time.

Linuron should be used only at seeding or after a cutting, on parsley, and will cause injury if it is used on the emerged crop.

Several varieties of tomato have been treated successfully with trifluralin (Treflan) used as a preplant-incorporated treatment.

Although some growers claim that this has reduced yields, Dr. Waywell says he can find no data from replicated field trials to support this claim.

Chlorophoram (CIPC) and CDEC (Vegadex) are the only herbicides that can be recommended for lettuce. Other experimental herbicides either did not provide satisfactory weed control or damaged the crop at the rates required for weed control. Vegadex should not be recommended for soils high in organic matter.

Dr. Waywell notes that while the supply of Pyrazon (Pyramin) was low in some areas of the province in 1969, the suppliers have ensured that stocks will be adequate for 1970.

Are you willing to take on other chores, chores which your wife now normally handles like shopping, etc. If you can do these things without feeling that your wife is competing with you by working, then perhaps it will work out.

A couple of other thoughts. What time will the children be home from school? Will someone responsible be there to meet them? What if no one is at home? Where will they go and who will they be with. A babysitter? Remember, they cost money.

And how about vacation time? Will you wife's job allow her to take her vacation at the same time as yours. Will her boss

$$$ And Good Sense

Dear Mr. Martin: We have a problem for you to solve. Mr. wife wants to go back to work. We can certainly use the extra money but I don't think it's worth it to the family in the long run. We have two children in grade school. What's your advice? Mr. J.B.

If you think I'm going to attempt to solve this problem for you, I'm afraid you're barking up the wrong tree. Marriage counselor or I am not. As a matter of fact, you pose one of the most complex of all family problems. No, I won't make the decision for you or your wife, but I will offer a few thoughts for you to think about. Then you and your wife should make the decision.

First of all, you must remember that if your wife returns to work, your home life will be changed. For instance, are you ready to pitch in with the housework, maybe even doing the dishes while your wife gets the kids ready for bed.

Are you willing to take on other chores, chores which your wife now normally handles like shopping, etc. If you can do these things without feeling that your wife is competing with you by working, then perhaps it will work out.

A couple of other thoughts. What time will the children be home from school? Will someone responsible be there to meet them? What if no one is at home? Where will they go and who will they be with. A babysitter? Remember, they cost money.

And how about vacation time? Will you wife's job allow her to take her vacation at the same time as yours. Will her boss recognize the fact that she's a mother first and his employee second? What about cost? Have you figured out about how much it's going to cost your wife in order to work? Clothes. Transportation. Lunches. Babysitters. Will her 'net income' be worth it? How will it affect your income tax?

These are just a few random thoughts I offer you for your consideration. There may be other problems which I haven't mentioned. But at least talk these over and then come to a joint decision.

Knox Young People Have Good Attendance

by Rev. Taylor-Munro

Sunday, April 19 KYPS met to decide on dates and detail for a recreational trip (Bowling and Swimming etc.) to Prudhome's on Friday, May 22 (evening) at Vineland.

New registrations were taken for the PYPS Rally on weekend of May 3 at Central Church, Hamilton. The Young People will sign in Friday, May 1 (a lot of the delegates). Saturday will be a big day with all delegates serving for the day as Social Workers in cooperation with various Help Agencies in the Metropolitan Area.

There will be supplementary items such as that classic film, "The Incredible Journey", when the Youth will have a chance to suggest social implications in this saga of a dog, a cat and other denizens and creatures along the way.

Sunday morning will be a time when the Delegates to the rally will take part in various worship services around the city, winding up with a luncheon, compliments of the ladies at Central Church.

The Rally cost during the weekend for delegates is a nominal $3, which may include billeting, if needed.

The local Knox Group hope to be represented on the Hamilton Presbytery Council Executive which meets once a month; nominations are now open.
