As With Gladness Men of Old

YOUTHFUL music-makers have rediscovered the original "pop" airs, hymns which departed from solemnity to express the gladness of old shared freely in the Yuletide that had spiritual significance for all humanity. William C. Dix (1837-1898), an Englishman, has not been given deserved credit (see above) for verses played and sung joyously to arrangement of a carol composed by Conrad Kocher (1786-1872) — the latter, when a German youth, influenced by the great Bach.
