

REPORT

STUDDED TIRES
 Motorists! Planning to put studded tires on your car this winter? If so, here's a reminder about the laws governing the use of studded tires in Ontario. Studded tires are permitted on motor vehicles from Oct. 1 to April 30, but it is illegal to put studded tires on the front only. The use of studded tires on the rear wheels or on all four wheels improves braking action when the temperature is near the freezing mark.

Officers of this detachment investigated 14 motor vehicle collisions resulting in injuries sustained to one person.

General occurrences investigated were three thefts, one assault, six break and enters, two impaired drivers, four charges laid under the liquor control act, and 22 requests for assistance which includes domestic complaints, abandoned vehicles and assistance to other police departments.

Prov. Const. H. J. Bell, traffic safety officer, visited three schools in the county and presented safety slides to 620 pupils.

On Dec. 1, a vehicle stolen from Brantford was recovered in North Cayuga Township.

On Dec. 5, a vehicle stolen from Seneca Township was recovered in the town of Caledonia.

Haldimand Association For The Mentally Retarded

November has been a very active month for the Haldimand Association for the Mentally Retarded. Two Card-o-ramas have been held, under the leadership of the ways and means committee, at Hagersville

Coho In Haldimand

by B. M. Bell
 Fresh water creeks running into Lake Erie have suddenly come alive with Coho Salmon.

At least that's what local fishermen report. Most streams running into the lake have salmon coming up them to spawn.

It's a fishermen's paradise one young enthusiastic fisherman reported. However, he refused to divulge his name or specifically what creek he was talking about.

His comment: "After all I don't know whether it's legal to catch them this time of the year or not."

The Record, after checking with George Warner, head of the Ontario Department Lands and Forests Detachment at Simcoe, learned that there is no season on the fish. However, regular angling regulations do apply.

Coho has been found miles from the lake in muddy waters that usually dry up in summer, the young man said.

It will be interesting to see the propagation progress and if the offspring will return to these creeks.

Mr. Warner said that there are such things as wanderers in the salmon heritage. Those put in Lake Erie also have not what is known as a home stream and are looking for a place to spawn.

and at Dunnville. All the proceeds will go to the Adult Training Centre in the county.

If you had the opportunity to attend the open house on Nov. 18, you would have seen the capable leadership given the trainees by the two supervisors, Mr. Keith DeBorde and Mrs. Ross Deagle. Many crafts are being taught and the articles are on sale. At this time of the year one would sense the fragrant aroma of Christmas cake baking, coming from the training centre kitchen. In the workshop the trainees are very busily occupied sanding and refinishing school desks for our Haldimand Board of Education.

On Nov. 28, the Golden Horseshoe Society at their annual Christmas dance presented Mrs. Ross Deagle, one of their members, with a cheque for $500, that being part of the proceeds from their annual Civic Holiday March of Time event.

The Haldimand Association for the Mentally Retarded do not canvass from door to door or by telephone. We depend on donations through the Haldimand Charities and county organizations, as well as personal volunteer donations. If you have received any telephone calls for the mentally handicapped, we would ask you to seek the identity of those calling, as this is the policy of the Haldimand Association.

The Association are sponsoring the new school being held in Cayuga United Church. Much credit must be given Mrs. Lynne Brown, Caledonia, who is teacher there. If you are interested in being a volunteer to assist Mrs. Brown, please contact the association.

Frozen Turkey

In Ontario today, over 90 percent of all turkeys are sold frozen. These turkey are killed, dressed and fast-frozen within 24 hours. When thawed and cooked these birds have all the fresh juicy flavor of a newly-killed bird. The storage conditions are very important to maintain this high quality.

At temperatures of -5 to 0 degrees turkeys may be held up to 12 months. Supermarkets usually sell frozen turkeys within three months. Once a bird is in a home freezer temperatures of -5 to 0 degrees must be maintained to preserve quality, say home economists at the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

Since most turkeys are marketed frozen it is important to recognize a bird that has been held under the best conditions. Look for birds that are solidly frozen, with a uniform white color. Make sure there are no signs of freezer burn or ice crystals in the bag.

BECKETL - News was received last Thursday of the birth, in Charlton, Australia, to Rev. and Mrs. James Becketl of a son Murray James, weight 8 1/2 lbs. The Rev. Becketl is the pastor of Faith Centennial United Church at Selkirk. He is on a nine months exchange with the Rev. Leonard Wood of Charlton. Rev. and Mrs. Becketl left Selkirk last May, the Rev. and Mrs. Wood arriving in Selkirk at that time.

Use Urea On Ice

Ice and snow bring their own special problems for the homeowner. Driveways, sidewalks, doorsteps and porches become slippery and dangerous; iron railings begin to corrode; some concrete starts to flake off, or scale.

Many homeowners use salt to make the ice less hazardous. Salt, however, is highly corrosive, and harms the grass beneath the snow so that by spring lawns are discolored and unhealthy. Professor Ross Irwin, School of Engineering, University of Guelph, recommends that urea, rather than salt, be used when temperatures are above 15 degrees F.

Garden-type urea pellets in 50 pound bags can be bought from any feed store but they tend to solidify and take up moisture in storage. Prilled or shotted urea contains an anti-caking compound which makes it easier to apply.

The application rate should be one pound to 100 square feet. If the ice is thick, the rate may be doubled but it is probably better to make a second application, says Professor Irwin. Don't apply more than the recommended rate as the nitrogen adds to the pollution problem.

Urea is as effective as salt in melting ice and has no harmful effect on vegetation or pavement. It will fertilize the grass rather than damage it. In the spring, lawns will come up in far healthier condition than they otherwise would.

WOULD EASE PINCH

TORONTO (CP) - Small stores want to sell beer as one way of easing the pinch caused by the current price war in Ontario supermarkets. George Crompton, assistant secretary-manager of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada (Ontario) Ltd., said a poll taken in 1969 showed 90 percent of the association's 3,200 members in favor of selling beer in their independent stores.

The Weeklies Say

NEVER THE SAME

Only non-parents or inexperienced parents make the mistake of thinking that the first days of school are the crucial ones. There may be a crisis then because of the shyness of homesickness of a six year old leaving mother for the first time. That's all. The greater trauma is experienced by the mothers and fathers a little later in the fall when they watch their three - or four year olds go off to kindergarten. Life is never really the same after that, no matter how much some mothers may think they look forward to being "free." A family collectively feels much older. - Campbellton (N.B.) Tribune

GLOBAL SLUM

The pollution crises is getting worse - not only in North America, but around the world. The recent smog episodes over New York and Tokyo were ominous warnings of the problems mankind will face in the coming decades unless more rapid action is taken to control pollution. Unless not only local authorities, but national governments, possibly even the United Nations, make more determined efforts to combat pollution of the air, the water and the land, by next century this once lovely planet will become a foul-smelling, ugly global slum. - Stanstead (Que.) Journal

THERE'S HOPE

At one time in this country and even in this century, people who were born deaf usually remained that way all their lives. As they never learned to talk because they couldn't hear a human voice they were often considered mute as well. Today, thanks to modern science and medicine, some children who were born without hearing can be helped by the use of hearing aids. - Huntington (Que.) Gleaner

UNUSUAL SOURCE

Perhaps one should not mention the fact, but the federal government has adopted a new design which, starting next year, is expected to quickly identify its various departments and agencies. The application of the design will be done gradually under the supervision of Information Canada, the new agency set up by Ottawa to disseminate federal government information. However, this information about the new design comes from a Montreal public relations firm, not information Canada. - Fort Frances (Ont.) Times

WORTH SAVING

We just hope that by the time those youngsters are celebrating the UN's 50th (anniversary) it will be the strongest organization in the world, backed up by people who were taught in elementary school that the world is worth saving and they're the ones to do it. - Whitehorse (Y.T.) Star

QUIET PLEASE

As more and more concrete is poured in large cities and towns, less space is available for restful parks. Housing shortages mean many families have less space than they would normally have. Crowded homes leave no quiet place for children or adults to enjoy relaxing pursuits. - Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress

WOMEN GET MORE TIRE MILES

According to a study by Goodyear, quoted by the Ontario Safety League, women drivers get about 10,000 miles more wear out of a set of tires than men.
