FRENCH ONION PIE
 The ordinary onion takes on star status in this traditional French onion pie. Home Economists Macdonald Institute, University of Guelph, suggest serving the pie as a luncheon dish with a tossed green salad.

Onion Pie
 9 or 10 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
 5 medium onions, thinly sliced
 1 tbsp. flour
 1 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 1 cup light cream
 4 slightly beaten eggs
 1, 9-inch unbaked pie shell
 1/3 cup grated Cheddar cheese
 dash of nutmeg
 Cook bacon until crisp. Pour fat from skillet, reserving one-quarter cup. Drain bacon on absorbent paper. Cook onions in reserved fat until tender but not brown.

Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add cream; cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; add small amount of hot mixture to eggs, then add eggs to hot mixture.

Mix well. Pour into pie shell; sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes until a knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Sprinkle with grated cheese and place under broiler for two minutes. Let stand five minutes before serving. Serves 6.

Federation Facts

By ROY HAGAN

When faced with the question of what is the Ontario Federation of Agriculture doing for the Ontario farmer, the first thing that comes to mind is probably one of the big faults of all agriculture that there is not enough public relations work being done to keep people informed.

It would seem farm people are just not interested in their own affairs.

Certainly a direct link between the farmer and his organization, such as direct service membership as offered by O.F.A., would solve the problem.

Surely some of the thoughts that should be most prominent in the minds of Haldimand farmers at this time are the development of the county and how it will affect their property, their living and most important their lives.

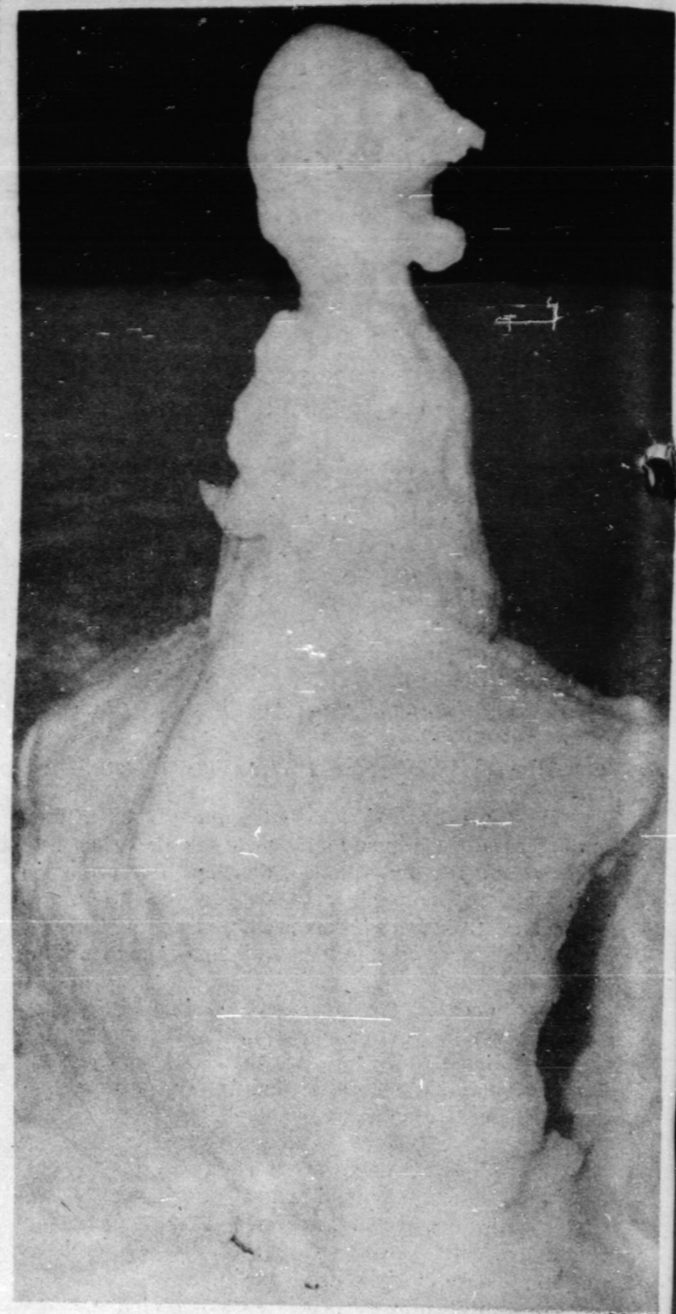

They also should be informed about decisions made outside of agriculture. Decisions such as insecticides, which were recently removed from the market. All chemicals used in agriculture to-day are under close watch.

Surely every one will agree these chemicals are essential to enable the farmer to produce low priced food for the Canadian public. But if one farmer makes a mistake and uses one of these chemicals improperly the farmer could find himself faced with far more stringent controls.

The Barber Commission report revealed the excess prices of farm machinery being paid in Canada. It is well known the O.F.A. imported tractors from England to prove that tractors imported could be bought far cheaper than in Ontario.

This resulted in Ontario farmers placing orders to import machinery through the O.F.A. Consequently the Ontario Farm Machinery Agency was formed, as a subsidiary of the O.F.A. which brought pressure on Ontario Farm Machinery Agents, but so far not on the manufacturers.

The commission revealed there are exorbitant profits being made in manufacturing of machinery by some

Another favourite of most was Colonel Jasper's Showboat, a minstrel group with a bit of "soft shoe" performed for good measure.

Five skits covering a wide variety of subjects were well enacted throughout the program.

The musical numbers by the Trio, Quartet, and Choir were thoroughly enjoyed with the climax at the close of the program around a campfire by all those participating in the show. The audience was called upon to add its voice in many of these numbers.

Many of those attending came from Toronto, Hamilton, Burlington, Binbrooke, Cayuga, Simcoe, Brantford, and Port Dover.

It is hoped that the proceeds can be used for a campsite for the Haldimand County Boy Scout Organization.

The Gang Show has been achieved with the help of many people who have given their time and effort voluntarily for no other reward than the satisfaction of service.

Due to the success of this year's endeavour it will be an annual event so folks - "REMEMBER TO LOOK FOR GANG SHOW 71."

Should Parents Pay?

There is an old biblical saying that the sins of the fathers will be visited upon their children. Now a Michigan city plans to visit the sins of the children upon their fathers.

This novel approach to the problem of juvenile delinquency has been taken by the city of Madison Heights, a Detroit suburb. An ordinance passed by city council provides that parents of youngsters under 17 who commit two or more criminal acts within 12 months may be sentenced to 90 days in jail or a $500 fine or both.

It is common knowledge that juvenile delinquency is a widespread problem today. Some of the younger generation dislike the society they live in and are in rebellion against it. Their rebellion takes various forms - disobeying their parents, defying existing convention and, in some cases, resorting to the use of drugs.

It is also common knowledge that many youngsters are well brought up and well behaved, conducting themselves in accord with the principles of present-day society.

The trouble-makers often come from affluent families or those of moderate means, rather than from the poor and the underprivileged groups. Everything has been done for them and they have never had to fend for themselves. In short, life has presented no challenge. As a result they have created their own challenge by defying society.

The parents are probably to blame in many instances which would seem to justify the approach of Madison Heights in holding them responsible. For instance parents who over-indulge in drinking or smoking are setting a poor example for their children. Then there is a lack of discipline. Youngsters not only need discipline; they expect it. When they fail to get it from their elders, they tend to go their own way.

Youth has boundless energy and if it isn't channelled into constructive purposes, it will probably find expression in anti-social behavior.

It is interesting to speculate what will happen if the Madison Heights idea becomes general practice. Today's young rebels eventually will grow up, settle down and raise families of their own. Will they then, in their turn, be required to pay for the misdeeds of their children.

20 YEARS AGO
 Colonel Richard Martin was appointed the first Sheriff of Haldimand, on its incorporation as a County in 1850, and held that office until his death in 1878. The family to which he belonged was one of the oldest and most respected in the County of Galway, Ireland.

30 YEARS AGO
 Birthday greetings were extended the following local residents on the Luella Cement program over Radio Station CKPC, Brantford on Monday night: Mrs. A. C. Saunders, Harry and Eileen Reynolds, Thos. Brown, Leonard Thorne and Melvin Porter.

Fay Head, ex-reeve of Hagersville, was tendered a complimentary banquet at the New Alward Hotel in Hagersville on Monday night on the eve of his departure for British Columbia, where he will join a squadron of the R.C.A.F. in the capacity of adjutant.

The annual Firemen's Ball was held in the Town Hall on Friday night. The early part of the evening was spent in playing progressive Euchre. The prize winners were: Mrs. Guy Lethong, Mrs. Andrew McKague, Mrs. Stanley Vokes, William Holland and John Norman.

Dancing was later enjoyed to the music of Kitchen's Orchestra of Simcoe. John J. Mitchell was Master of Ceremonies.

Another local boy to join the army this week was Phillip Coldwell who for the past several years has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hair. He came to this country several years ago from the City of Chatham in the County of Kent, England and will likely return to his home Country as a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment of London Ontario, where he joined this week.

The Busy Bee Needle Club under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Smuck and including Audrey de la Fosse, Tina Hogeterp, Rose Hogeterp, Helen Swing, Vera Belbeck, Shirley Keefe, and Diane Miller, attended Achievement Day in Kohler on Saturday.

At the annual meeting of the Congregation on Thursday night last, members of the United Church took the first step toward installing a new heating system for the Church and Sunday School.

The prize for this weeks Teen Town dance was a manicure set donated by David Banks and we wish to thank him for it.

The committee for Saturday, Feb. 11 will be Gerald Robinson, Jack Dossor, Norma Stire and Shirley Elliott.

See you all there.

LETTER BOX

Wise, Unwise And Otherwise

By The Old Owl

THE REPUBLIC OF CANADA

How would you feel if you woke up some morning and realised that you were no longer living under a Parliamentary system of government headed by a Queen, but under a Congressional style headed by a President? Such a development is not so imaginary as you might think.

The anti-British tone was set by Mackenzie King when he forbade the granting of titles to Canadian citizens. It was carried further by Lester Pearson who stole the Peruvian flag, a maple leaf in the centre and called it Canada's flag - with the Union Jack carefully eliminated.

Now Pierre Elliott Trudeau seems bent on carrying it to its logical conclusion by undertaking a low voice campaign to get the Canadians used to the idea of a system of government based on that of the U.S.A. John Diefenbaker has called it "creeping republicanism." I do not very often agree with "The Chief", but in this matter he is dead right and his warnings must be heeded by all who value real democracy and the British parliamentary system.

For some time I have been worried about the way things are going, now I have two important witnesses. In its October issue Macleans Magazine gives a list of 34 men who are the policy makers for Mr. Trudeau. Of the 34 only seven are elected, the rest appointed. Now Mr. Philip Givens, former mayor of Toronto, now a Liberal M.P., has spoken openly charging that the American system had been adopted by the present government.

The parliamentary system requires that the head of the government and all his cabinet be members of Parliament. This brings every move of the government under the scrutiny of Parliament which can turn out a government if it sees fit. The American system requires that the members of the Cabinet be NOT members of Congress but outsiders appointed by the President, who is not himself a member of Congress. It is an unwieldy system as the recent presidential veto has shown. The Congress and the President prepared two different bills on social welfare and the President vetoed that of the Congress. This could not happen in Canada. Both Houses of Congress have Democratic majorities, the President is Republican. This could not happen in Canada.

What Mr. Trudeau probably resents is the fact that under the parliamentary system Parliament is supreme. It is the ruling element in government, it appoints the Prime Minister, who is theoretically its servant. Under our system the Parliament can turn out the government any time it chooses, under the American system they have to wait for four years.

We are all aware of the marvelous work done by the Humane Society and associates. In my judgment, they are in a league with the Red Cross, Salvation Army, John Howard Society, etc. As the law stands, they are thoroughly throttled; they can't do anything without a search warrant. (There could be needless suffering to animals while all this red tape is being dealt with.)

I'll cite one instance in Cayuga, right here on this street. I had reason to believe a dog was being mistreated. I called the Town Constable. (As you know there is no Humane in the Village.) In a matter of minutes, he was down here and examined the dog. It certainly saved me a lot of sleepless nights.

I put it to you, co-fellows of the great unwashed, when we are next called to mark our X, do we choose politicians preoccupied with "HOW MUCH?" or do we choose ones for their good judgment and humanity?

With all the American millions pouring into our universities for war research, it gives one pause to wonder where this thing will end.

When all the "strays" have been used, they may start selecting certain types of human beings, for research purposes.

Thank you, Helen Hobbs.

Mrs. Hobbs received the following reply from a similar letter sent to the Ontario Humane Society:

December 29, 1969.
 Mrs. Helen Hobbs, Talbot Road, Cayuga, Ontario.
 Dear Mrs. Hobbs:
 Thank you for your letter. As you say, Bill 194 may now be law, but it certainly is not dead. I am sure the Society will continue to oppose the bad sections of this Bill as long as necessary.

In the meantime, I assure you that the Ontario Humane Society will have no part in acting as a procurement agency for the government, procuring animals for research, or releasing them alive for painful research.

I hope that the next election will indeed produce a government with a different attitude towards this difficult problem.

Best wishes, and thank you for your personal opinion, which I do value.

Yours sincerely, T. I. Hughes, General Manager.

THANK YOU
 Dear Sir,
 I want to thank you again for the $10.00 prize I won from your Bazaar of Values.
 Thank you.
 Yours truly,
 Mrs. Beverly Rowntree.
