Ontario incomes have doubled in 12 years. That's something your children can build on Ontario youngsters can look forward to the future with more confidence than almost anyone. They'll inherit an economic giant with a remarkable record of accomplishment. Few places in the world, for example, can equal our record for rising incomes. Our pay envelopes are twice what they were in 1957, yet prices have gone up just 33%.

Ontarians earn more, perhaps, because we produce more. Our Gross Provincial Product (the dollar value of all the goods and services produced) has doubled in the last decade. By 1969 it had reached $32.3 billion and projections show we could reach $52 billion by 1975. Today we account for more than half of Canada's manufactured goods and 80% of Canada's fully manufactured exports. Nice work!

Because of the way we work, Ontario is in good shape to face the future. We have an economy our children, and their children can build on... an economy that can continue to provide the 100,000 new jobs we need each year to accommodate our growing labour force. Though, our dollar and our economy face many challenges these days, Ontario has built the foundation to meet them. But, it's not our style to stand on our record. We must keep growing and keep building our economy.

One way you can help put your money where your job is - when prices and quality compare, shop Canadian.

Ontario's educational system is growing to provide the skills and knowledge that are vital to a growing economy. The Province today has 16 universities with a student population that has doubled in the last four years. And we've created 20 community colleges in three years to give Ontarians the widest educational opportunities.

Our growing economy places growing demands on electrical power. Nuclear generating stations, like the one above under construction near Pickering, will help supply keep pace with demand. This station will be one of the largest in the world.

Wages aren't all that have been going up in Ontario. There's been a rise in steel and concrete to boost our expanding population and industry. Last year over one third of all the money invested in construction in Canada was invested in Ontario.

Canada's life style of tomorrow presents many challenges. But it's Ontario's style to meet these challenges.

Afternoon Unit Meeting of Wesley UCW

The afternoon unit of the U.C.W. met in the church parlour on June 23 with Mrs. Robert Smuck presiding.

Mrs. Troke presented a very thought provoking devotional on the theme of "Our Nearness to God."

The roll call was answered by members telling the name of the flower they were wearing.

Mrs. Pearl Marr had done a great deal of research on the topic of "Racism to Full Community" in United States and Canada. A few of the thoughts expressed were as follows - We believe that God has formed every person to be in a very special way like himself.

Some have black skin, some yellow skin, some white skin with varied colours in between to round out a wealth of completeness in Creation. It is our hope that one day all may be reconciled to feel equal, that all races may laugh together, sing and play together and worship together as one people.

Mrs. Marr told us of many ways that Canada is trying to help the Indians. Each province has Indian Student residences administered by the Indian Affairs Branch of the Federal Govt.

The church also plays a part in a pastoral and educational role. In Alberta Indian Students are provided with books and bus fare to travel to Edmonton to be tutored by University Student and to live in the homes of residents of the city. In other provinces homes are provided for students when the come to the cities to improve their education. Service organizations are donating toward such projects as the building of a community hall for Cree Indians in Northern Ontario. Grade nine students of Hagersville Secondary School studied Indian Culture and toured the Six Nations Reserve this past year.

May we be freed from the bondage of colour and caste into the marvel of being neighbor to any person who needs us.

The business meeting followed. Memorial cards for the Bible Society may be secured from Mrs. Nellie Stallwood.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Marr and Mrs. Troke.
