REPORT

For women who drive alone a forced stop at night is, at best, an anxious experience. For this reason, particular attention should be given to cars driven by women to keep them in top mechanical condition.

In the event of any breakdown on the open highway — or anywhere, at night — a lone woman is advised: remain in the car and keep it locked; try to attract attention by a white cloth tied to the car or by flashing your headlights, then ask anyone who stops to have a service truck sent out from the nearest service station. Remember that you can feel much more confident talking to a truck driver for any well known organization, than a man driving an unmarked vehicle.

If someone bothers you, sound your horn over and over. If that someone tries to open your door, take off immediately if the car will move even with a flat tire. If you are deliberately followed by another car at any time, drive to a police station or a busy service station. Always, always, always keep your car doors locked while you are driving! Apart from the protection against a possible intruder (e.g. at a traffic light), locked doors slightly reduce the risk of injury in a crash.

Officers of the Cayuga Detachment investigated a total of 10 motor vehicle collisions over the period of July 5-11, 1970. Three injuries were sustained as a result of these collisions.

On July 7, Prov. Const. W.L. Bessey recovered a car in Oneida Township, reported stolen from St. Catharines, Ontario.

On July 9, Prov. Const. W. L. Eves recovered a car in Walpole Township, reported stolen from Hamilton, Ontario, on July 7, 1970.

Two persons were reported missing, one from South Cayuga Township and one from North Cayuga Township — both were located and returned home.

General occurrences investigated were: 15 thefts, six break and enters, nine Criminal Code offences, four Liquor Control Act investigations resulting in four charges being laid, 25 requests for assistance.

Turf Management

Subject Of Course
To the player, a golf course is a thing of beauty and a joy to behold; that's when he's playing well. Other days, of course, that lush challenge is just a mess of gullies, sand traps, mounds and sliced fairway bolls.

To the golf course superintendent, on the other hand, the golf course is a work of art, and a very complex work at that. Few know how much goes into producing and maintaining the specialized grasses that make up a good golf course.

The first annual winter school for turf managers was conducted by the Department of Horticultural Science at the University of Guelph from February 3 to 19, 1970. It was an instructional course for turf specialists working with golf courses, sod farms, educational institutions, landscape contractors and preservation personnel.

Dr. J. L. Eggen, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Guelph, was the course director. Specialists from several universities and turf managers lectured on management, weed and disease control, plant physiology, soils and fertilizers, entomology, landscape design, irrigation and drainage, and accounting and budgeting.

Equipment was discussed by industry representatives, and evening speakers covered many topics of particular interest to turf managers.

Dr. Eggen said that 65 per cent of participants took on golf courses. Next year, he added, it was the course would run five days per week for five weeks. Such a schedule would make it easier to take up residents for the duration of the course, there would be less time and effort spent in commuting, and more to be gained from informal evening discussions and the like than was the case last year.

Those interested in participating in such a course are invited to contact Dr. Ron Campbell, Office of Continuing Education, University of Guelph, Guelph.

Letter Box
Dear Sir:

I guess by now we have all had a good look at our new Prince of Wales, a lot of us can recall his predecessor, what a heavy burden a Royal Tour must have been for him in those days.

I don't think anyone would question me on this, when Prince Charles alighted at Uplands Airport he shook hands with some of the Senior Statesmen and went on to casually walk around with his hands in his pockets talking to girls.

One trying Royal Tour comes to mind just now, the one on which our little Queen was carrying one of her children. Of course we didn't know it at the time, not until she was back in England.

The emphasis seems now to be on less formal Royal Tours. I think the complexity of the Country warrants that.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Helen Hobbs.

Recollections Of Long Point

By Edward Harris
When Joseph Ryerson in 1800 purchased the Island to which he gave his name, he had no thought of duck shooting. His intention was to reside there, as both land and water were bountiful in providing the necessities of life, ducks, ruffed grouse, woodcock, snipe and deer were plentiful, also fish in endless supply. This he told me — he was my great uncle. I had many talks with him as a grown boy. Not many men can now say that they have talked with a man who tried to shoot George Washington. But Joseph Ryerson was a noted young New Jersey sniper from 1776 to 1783. He died aged 93. He was the grandfather of the present Surgeon-General Ryerson, of Red Cross fame, and father of Egerton Ryerson, hereinafter mentioned.

We first begin to hear of the present "Long Point" in the early fifties. The Grand Trunk Railway opened in 1856. Then came a market for everything edible, game especially, in the American cities. Game in any form had never been a favorite food with the farmers, nor is it now. When killed, money in pocket was the object, and netting was a general practice. Ruffed grouse, quail, wild pigeons and turkeys were the first to be exterminated. The duck marshes from Rice Lake and other lakes in Eastern Ontario, to St. Clair flats and Mitchell's Bay in Western Ontario were soon depleted. Turkey Point and Big Creek Marshes soon followed. Then all eyes and guns were turned towards the present property of the Long Point Company.

With marvellous rapidity it became an open common and a resort for the idle and dissipated. The place was shunned by sportsmen of better sort. With steamboats and tugs on the American side of the lake and no railway on the Canadian side, Long Point was more easy of access from Buffalo and Erie than from any Canadian City. "Morrisey and Heenan" had their prize fight there and more recently "Dwyer and Elliott."

Dr. Ryerson, after the formation of the Company, having built his own cottage, made it a practice, when shooting, to read prayers in the Club House dining room. The hunters and members attended. There then was no tug for an easy Sunday run to Port Rowan. Shortly after the Doctor's death, the Company decided to do its own catering instead of being served and fed by the proprietor of the Port Rowan Hotel. It was found all but impossible to get a female cook and servant for the season. The excuse given was that for two months they could not go to church. The reputation of the place also had not been wholly forgotten. For this reason one of the members for several years read prayers in the Club House on Sundays. There was always a good attendance. Subsequently, good servants were more easily obtained. It is worthy of note that there has not been an accident or a scandal at Long Point since the formation of the Company. Prior to its formation, the shooting was continuous from Spring until the freeze up, from daylight until midnight and on Sundays, ending in the sundown flight, often followed by moonlight shooting.

The marsh was being rapidly destroyed as a property of any value.

On The Farm Front
Roy Hagan, Jarvis, will host a Twilight Meeting for the Haldimand Soil and Crop Improvement Association on Wednesday evening, July 22. Various plots and projects of the Association will be on display as well as entries in the High Yield Competitions. Dr. Stan Young of the University of Guelph will be the special speaker for the evening.

D.H.I.A. records starting on or after July 1, 1970, will be considered official by the Holstein-Friesian, Jersey and Guernsey Breeders' Associations.

o-o-o-
Corn Rootworm larvae are expected to be fully developed by mid-July. Estimates of the population can be learned by examining corn roots and adhering soil. An average of 10 or more rootworms per plant may warrant control measures next year, if corn is to be grown on the same field.

o-o-o-
Haldimand Hog Producers are reminded of their association's boar bonus policy for 1970. The bonus of $15.00 will be awarded to county producers who purchase one of the top 20 boars during the year. To qualify, boars will have a minimum "weighprobe index" of 115. Detail on the plan should be checked with Elgin Latimer, R.R.1, York, or with the county agricultural office.

o-o-o-
A Farm and Home Management Day is to be held in Western Ontario principally in Oxford County on July 21. This is an information day for farmers to see and hear the Livestock Systems Story on a choice of six successful farms. A similar program is planned for this area on Thursday, September 3.
