

THE WEEKLIES SAY . . .

TAKEN FOR GRANTED
Today it is so easy to take things for granted that we forget the past. A recent news release from The Financial Post tells of a wind-driven electric plant being used in Arctic Sweden to generate power for the operation of the 10 telephones in the local system. It wasn't too many years ago that familiar wind-driven power generators were being used in parts of the Rainy River district. Today we take Hydro-provided electric energy for granted. — Fort Frances (Ont.) Times.

INVITE LAZINESS
The (federal) government will spend $57.8 million on a summer aid program for students . . . but should the already over-burdened taxpayer have to shoulder the cost of a program that invited laziness? — Humboldt (Sask.) Journal.

GRAIN CURTAIN
It's easier to export grain to China than to British Columbia or Manitoba. Between each province, the wheat board has erected a sort of "grain curtain." — Swift Current (Sask.) Sun.

SECOND THOUGHTS
Responsible people should have second thoughts before they vilify the democratic process we now enjoy. — Rimby (Alta.) Record.

OBJECTIONABLE METHOD
Sex is good. Sex is beautiful. It is one of God's greatest gifts to man . . . What is objectionable is the debasement of sex, focusing in books, films and stage performances on its perversions. — Western Catholic Reporter.

OTHER ROUTES
A gas pipeline route up the Mackenzie Valley looks like a pretty sure thing. If we want the line, we'd better support it. If we don't support it there are other routes. — Inuvik (NWT) The Drum.

ON AGAIN
The tourist season is on again! So say Ron and Jean Purvis after a visit on Thursday to their jade factory out Texas Creek way. Their winter rock hunts have netted them some "thunder eggs" which look like cannon balls piled up and ready to be converted into jewelry other attractive things for the season. — Bridge River-Lillooet (BC) News.

St. John's Evening Guild

by Helen Hobbs
This was a joint meeting of the Guild and ACW. We started with the Guild Prayer and Lord's Prayer each repeated in unison. The Guild members each brought two items for the quiet auction, that being proceeded with, netting the sum of $24.53.

Miss Mary Mardock then showed slides, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Parsons at the projector. Miss Mardock spoke of one of her recent trips to England, and of a very dear friend of our parish, Mrs. Best, Deaconess in the church and a missionary for many years. Mrs. Best spent some of her retirement years in Cayuga and is now back in England.

The slides were of Cathedrals in England, some dating back to the 14th Century and others as modern as today, with the new Crucifix and Altar. The grave of the unknown soldier holds a place of prominence in Westminster Abbey, something that was slightly frowned on by the aristocracy of the day (first world war) Mary said those historic buildings are probably Britain's greatest tourist attraction. Looking at those magnificent structures even on film and noting with what loving care and expense they have been maintained over the years, is like looking into the soul of the people who maintain them. Pat Armstrong thanked Mary on behalf of us all.

A delicious lunch was then served by Mrs. Bernice Stubble, Mrs. Donna Armstrong and Mrs. Isobel Sumner.

We finished with the business part of the meeting coming last. Mr. Ewing asked the Guild to serve lunch, after the Deaconess Meeting, being held at St. John's Parish Hall April 19 (approximately 50 men). A committee was appointed of Mrs. Nora Weightson, Mrs. Donna Armstrong, and Mrs. Margaret Hoover. Ten members and three visitors were present. We are to cater for a wedding supper at the Metcalf Hall in the first part of June.

Next meeting at Mrs. Donna Armstrong's home. Mrs. Helen Hobbs and Mrs. Eleanor Parsons — lunch. Meeting closed with prayer.

This will make 11 charities listed to be divided evenly unless donors request their money to go to a certain fund. Total objective to be $2800. Mrs. Miller has ordered 1,000 cards plus necessary envelopes which will be available at her home when printed — in time for the canvass. She will endeavor to get as many delivered as possible. It is hoped every citizen will realize that the canvassers are doing their work gratis. That each should give what can be spared as a thank offering for living in this land of peace and prosperity. "As ye have received freely give."

MP Bill Knowles And Mrs. Knowles, Guests Of Happy Doubles

At the April meeting of the Wesley United Church Happy Doubles Club, Bill Knowles MP for Haldimand-Norfolk was guest speaker.

At this well attended meeting Mr. Knowles very ably described the development of the democratic system of government in Canada, stressing the need for Canadian people to show an interest in the political freedom we have in Canada. Noting that Canada is one of the few countries in the world where this kind of freedom is enjoyed.

He suggested that most Canadian people, not having experienced any other type of government possibly do not realize how free they really are.

During a very interesting question and answer period, Mr. Knowles described the daily activities of a member of parliament.

This reporter would suggest, having read reports of day's activities in the Parliament of Canada including decisions made, that our MP's are far more busy than the most of us in our country, and probably complain less about being over worked.

The Jarvis Record, Thursday, April 22, 1971 - 7 Federation News

by Otto Crone
On the evening of April 8, the Haldimand Federation of Agriculture held a general meeting at Kohler with special visitor, William Knowles, MP, and guest speaker Jack Hale, manager of OFA in attendance.

Before the opening of Mr. Hale's speech, someone in the audience said 'I don't know what he is going to speak about but I guess I'll stick it out.' Well, he was certainly rewarded for his wait for Mr. Hale's topic was the OFA's suggested proposal of removing the education tax from property tax and adjusting it to one's income tax. The concept of "services to people be paid by people and not by property" would be of great benefit to many farmers and homeowners as it would spread the heavy burden of education more fairly among the population.

He explained the initial principles that the OFA were basing their argument on in demanding a change. The first concerned benefit. Land does not benefit from education. Secondly, this tax should be paid according to ability to pay and property does not necessarily indicate an ability to pay.

As the situation stands now, a farmer is paying more towards education than his neighbor homeowner just as this same neighbor is paying more than a home containing more than one family. Is this fair? OFA's answer was a firm no and thus demanded a change. The provincial government, in turn, sympathized but declared that a solution was impossible. The OFA eagerly accepted the challenge to prove them wrong and with the added moral support of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves set out to do just that.

This is how their proposal works. A special education tax on income is to raise $735,000,000 is the amount now raised by education taxes on property. The proposed rates would be to tax personal taxable income at 3.27 percent to raise $409,000,000 — the amount that farmers and homeowners now pay in education taxes on property and to tax corporate taxable income at 11.61 percent to raise $326,000,000 — the amount that businesses now pay in education taxes.

What does this mean to farmers. At present, Ontario farmers earn approximately $100,000,000 taxable income per year and pay out approximately $40,000,000 towards education through property tax. This means that 40 percent of their taxable incomes is for education while under the OFA proposal, they would pay equally with the rest of the population, 3.27 percent. This is not for the farmer's benefit alone. It would also aid low-income homeowners and businesses with high education assessments and catch those who are capable of contributing but are not.

As aforementioned, our representative in Ottawa was also present at this meeting. He spoke briefly on Bill C176 which concerns legislation to allow the establishment of a National Marketing Council. He noted amendments to the bill and indicated that opposition comes from provinces where they do not have and are not familiar with marketing boards.

The business was concluded with the election of Mr. Mark Stephenson to fill the vacancy left by Mr. William Creighton to represent Haldimand County as Director of OFA.

The meeting was, in turn, adjourned with the closing comment that "the issues could be discussed until its time to milk the cows."
