The Weeklies Say . . .

MANY HIT

By taking away family allowances from all those over $10,000, the government would be adding considerably to the tax burden of the already hard-hit middle class income earners. It has not been at ail unusual for families to receive $500-$600 annually in family allowances. The loss of such net non-taxable income means, in effect, new taxation. And Health Minister John Munro says the white paper proposals will not cost taxpayers much more money! Many will be hit and not just the millionaires. - Campbellton (N.B.)

PARENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

Apparent increased drug traffic through Fort Frances, with more young people becoming involved in the transmission and use of drugs, is cause for concern among law enforcement agencies in the town and. district. But unless parents become interested in the illicit drug use among the young people, one can only foresee a continued increase in the illicit use of drugs. This is one time when parents cannot shed their responsibilities. - Fort Frances (Ont.) Times

SAME MISTAKES

Government is entitled to make mistakes, just as we are, but we will not tolerate the same old mistakes over and over again. Under such circumstances we speak out, as we do when we are aware someone is trying to do a snow job on the public and on us. - Yellowknife (NWT) News of the North

BUDGET TINKERING

Much of the proposed government spending seems of the crash program, or "make work" variety. It may afford some temporary relief, but it does not get at the basic nature of Canada's unemployment problem . . . Minor budget tinkering will not solve inflation and unemployment. - Chilliwack (BC) Progress

SPEAK UP

We don't expect taxpayers to agree with everything we have to say but we do expect them to speak their minds. We intend to because we feel it is necessary to keep taxpayers fully informed of what is happening, why it is happening, what's right and what's wrong with actions of elected officials. If we can provoke some interest and thought, then we are doing our job. -Campbell River (BC) Upper Islander

SUPPORT YOUTH

A sizable minority of the younger generation have indeed hurt the cause of youth with their mindless drug abuse and unreasonable campus demands and behaviour but the fact remains that the immature and irresponsible are still a minority. - Vernon (BC) News
