Federation News

In regard to the matter of insurance, how many farmers realize how much is changing economy and developing society change their insurance needs.

These few questions might be worthy of consideration:

1. With the industrial development in our county and surrounding areas, and the resulting increase in people traveling our township and county roads, how does this affect the farmers liability?

2. The law requires a farmer to have a special licence, of specific dimensions for machinery on the roads. We note that all too few farmers seem to realize this. How does this affect the farmer and his insurance?

3. With the increasing number of people in the area not familiar with agriculture, how does this affect the farmer's insurance needs?

4. In view of the fact that our entire economy is facing an extreme shortage of dollars and many of our lending agencies are questioning whether they will be able to supply credit to their steady customers, how much risk can an individual farmer expect on his own?

5. As land in our county is gaining an ever increasing value, to what extent can a farmer risk loss of his farm?

Your Haldimand County Federation has set up the following insurance committee with terms of reference: Ray Cowie, Chairman; Ken Anderson; Grant Temple; Orlin Rittenhouse; Co-Op Chairman.

The Insurance Committee shall concern itself with all types of insurance particularly that which involves rural people. This shall include crop insurance, unemployment insurance, Workmen's Compensation, Canada Pension plan, auto, and farm liability.

It can be questioned, what are some of the things the Federation has done? Certainly CIAG is one of many important contributions that could be pointed out as it is the farmer's insurance company founded within the farmers organization. Therefore the insurance committee shall work with the CIAG staff in the county and CIAG underwriters to assist in the promotion in the promotion of Co-Op insurance in the county.

At this point it might be well to mention that all insurance does not come with a premium in dollars but in many instances is gained through taking time to gather all facts regarding a situation.

In finding answers to any questions that might come to mind in reading this column, it is strongly recommended that the Haldimand farmers approach their lawyer, their insurance agent or contact their Federation office.

As an insurance in the future of agriculture take note of a Hill. The individual farmer must accept the responsibility of setting Hill. The individual farmer must accept the responsibility of setting agricultural policy in the future, for both the OFA and agriculture as a whole.

Toronto School Board Approves Budget

(CP) Metropolitan Toronto school board took only five minutes to approve a $432.7 million budget.

The board's action wipes out the possibility of a challenge to the Ontario government's spending ceiling and will mean a local school tax decrease of 6.68 mills.

There was no opposition to the switching of funds from ordinary spending to a category not covered by the ceiling and a decision not to budget anything for replacing furniture and equipment, measures that cut a final one percent from the budget.

On The Farm Front

The Local Committee for the 1971 International Plowing Match meets at the Haldimand Agricultural Centre, Kohler, on Tuesday evening, May 11. The many sub-committees will be reporting on activity and progress to date. All concerned have found this procedure most helpful.

A special Rural-Urban exchange of Ontario young people will take place this summer. The success of the program will depend on the interest of rural families in hosting young people from the city for an interval during the summer. More detail will be available soon but in the meantime those interested might contact the county agricultural office.

The importance of nitrogen to crops has been observed during the past few weeks. During cool weather the chemical process that releases nitrogen necessary for crop growth is slow. Nitrogen applied in the ammonium nitrate form is more readily available. An application early in the spring to crops such as wheat or pasture will accordingly stimulate growth.

In spite of any other suggestion there is no evidence that an application of potassium (potash) to Haldimand clay soils will improve crop yield.

The type of clay that makes up our soil type has a naturally high level of potash. Even the most demanding crop requirements are naturally met by this supply.

On the other hand most crops do require from 50 to 100 lbs. per acre of phosphate more than is naturally supplied by the Haldimand clay soils. The situation with lighter or sandy soils in the county is almost the reverse of the above. Although these generalities will be useful, a soil test is still advised where possible.

The worth of Canfarm for income tax purposes was evident recently. Canfarm is really a farm management tool but very little adjustment of the processed information was necessary to file the income tax return.

Wesley UCW

The afternoon Unit under the leadership of Mrs. Earl Slater met in the church parlor on April 20. The Committee Members, Mrs. Clarence Hayes and Mrs. Nellie Stallwood developed the Easter Message as portrayed by the concerned women at the empty tomb. The well prepared devotional reminded us to "Count our blessings and to thank our God" also that "Christians must walk in the light, God is always with us."

The May meeting will take the form of a quilting bee. Ladies are asked to come in the morning for a pot luck dinner. Please bring clothing to this meeting for the spring sale.

The program took the form of an interesting skit entitled "Closing in on the Poverty Circle" with Mrs. Clarence Hayes, Mrs. Harry Belbeck and Mrs. Nellie Miller taking part.

The leader closed the meeting with prayer. The committee served a tasty lunch.
