May 9 - 15 Mental Retardation Week In Canada

Once each year, the public is drawn to the attention of those less fortunate than themselves through radio, television and the press in recognizing mental retardation week. Here in the County of Haldimand, we have an active association working for the needs of the retarded - not just during mental retardation week but for every week of the year.

Your Donation, Bequest Helps Your Hospital

Ever since the first hospital opened its doors, hospitals have needed financial support from the public. They still do.

Unfortunately, many Canadians have drawn the mistaken conclusion that governments now pay for hospitals. In fact, governments pay for operating costs through hospital insurance and also contribute part of the money toward building a new hospital or extending an existing one.

But governments do not pay all these capital costs. They believe the community should be willing to supply financial help as well to develop its own health facilities. In addition, there is always money needed for special equipment not paid for by the government. Since hospital technology is constantly advancing, this equipment rapidly becomes obsolescent. There are many ways in which such support can be given. Large companies with a responsibility to the communities in which they function provide generous help. Service clubs sometimes pledge substantial sums which they contribute and collect themselves. Many individuals make donations to their local hospitals, often in the form of bequests. Hospitals wish there were more.

Mental retardation is not a disease, it is a life-long condition. However, there are some conditions resembling mental retardation which can be improved or cured. For instance, deafness, poor vision, emotional disturbance, or poor living conditions may sometimes make a child appear retarded. Therefore, all children who seem to be mentally retarded should be carefully investigated to discover, if possible, the reason for their slow development.

Research has found that mental retardation is the commonest of all childhood disabilities. It handicaps twice as many children as cerebral palsy, rheumatic heart disease and blindness all together. Three out of every 100 children born are mentally retarded to some degree. There are more than half a million retarded people in Canada today.

Next week, the Haldimand Association is sending two delegates to an annual conference at Thunder Bay, Ont. Mrs. McCall of Hagersville, Mrs. Ross of Deseronto, Caledonia. This year's conference is in conjunction with mental retardation week.

On Wednesday, the Canfield School for Mentally Retarded Children, holding their annual House, when parents and friends are cordially invited to attend from 3.30 in the afternoon until 6.30 to 9 p.m.

The following week, 17 to 21, the Adult Training Centre will be holding House each day from the morning until the afternoon.

This will be an opportunity to see that is being done by mentally retarded at school and in the Training Centre, both in the Canfield area of the condition. However, there are some conditions resembling mental retardation which can be improved or cured. Over 2,000 pieces of art, including paintings and sculpture was on view at the exhibition. We hear such terms as "Art forms an important part of everyone's life" or "Art is a form of religion." The showing certainly proved what it set out to do, namely the creative ability shown by students of the four counties, which ranged from pre-schoolers to graduate students. Bicycle accidents can be prevented! Here are some tips from the Ontario Department of Transport. Make sure the bike fits the child. A youngster on a bike too big for him is five times as likely to be involved in a collision as one on a bike of the proper size. The ball of his foot should reach the ground comfortably from a seated position. Make sure your child knows and obeys the rules of the road. Cyclists must obey traffic signs and must signal their turns, stops and lane changes . . . and no stunting or showing off in traffic. Make sure your child's bike is in safe mechanical condition. Nuts should be tightened, moving parts lubricated. For after dark driving, the bike must have a front light and a red reflector or light on the rear; plus reflective tape . . . red on the rear fender, white on the front forks.

If you'd like to make a fancy dessert in a hurry, you can use a mix of bakery-made base and a few touches make it as if you had slaved all

Split sponge cake shells crosswise so there is a round and a ring. Prepare pudding mixture over top of each round, top with a ring. Decorate top of each ring with 1 tablespoon of pudding mixture. Fill centre with thawed cherries.

For each serving, spread 3 tablespoons pudding mixture over top of each round, top with a ring. Decorate top of each ring with 1 tablespoon of pudding mixture. Fill centre with thawed cherries.

Cherry Torte: An angel cherry torte calls for: one 1-pound can dark pitted sweet cherries, 1/2 cup juice drained from cherries, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1/2 cup cherry brandy (optional), one 8-inch baker's angel food cake, 1 package fluffy white frosting mix, 2 tablespoons semi-sweet chocolate shavings.

Add corn starch to cherry juice, stir until dissolved. Cook over low heat, stirring, until thickened.

Blend 3 tablespoons brandy to thickened juice, add cherries and chill. Cut cake into 2 layers. Prepare frosting mix as directed substituting remaining brandy for some of the required liquid.

Spread small amount of frosting on inner and outer edge of bottom cake layer to form a rim 1/2 inch high. Chill until firm. Reserve 10 cherries from thickened syrup, arrange remaining cherries and sauce between the 2 rims on bottom cake layer. Cover with top layer, frost top and sides of cake. Garnish with chocolate shavings and cherries.

Cruncy Pie: An easy way to have a cherry pie with a difference for dessert is to begin with a pie from the bakery.

Then you need: 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 3/4 cup chopped pecans or walnuts. Combine first three ingredients. Spread over cherry pie. Place under broiler and broil two or three minutes.

You can vary a bakery apple pie with a topping of: 1/2 cup cheese spread and 3/4 ounce package of cashew nuts.

Whip cheese spread. Crush 1/3 of cashews and blend with cheese. Roll into balls the size of walnuts and stick remaining nuts on top of the pie. Warm in a hot oven before serving if desired.
