

St. John's Evening Guild

by Helen Hobbs
St. John's Evening Guild held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jas. Armstrong on May 10. Roll call showed 13 members present. Four get well cards were sent.

It was decided to hold an opportunity sale in October. Plans were discussed for catering to the June 5 wedding party at the Metcalf Hall.

There will be no June meeting of The Guild, instead we will assemble at the Parish Hall on June 10 for the purpose of decorating for the "Gay Nineties" costume party, to be held on Friday June 14. This leads off the 75th Anniversary held on June 13.

We hope to have a former Rector as guest speaker for this occasion. The meeting closed with prayer.

Good Average

ONTO (CP) - Three a night Percy line. And 80 percent time he's right - a fair average. It's one in common with Toronto weatherers, but they aren't on their laurels. After all, only seem to be the times they were wrong, they

Saltzman, 55, has been forecasting for 19 years for nearly 19 but he still worries delivering one that's "you want to do job because it's a on oneself," he than just a weatherer, Mr. Saltzman is a meteorologist in the Toronto weather office until he retired from there three years ago.

For his broadcasting he still begins his working day at the federal meteorological offices collecting all forecasts, summaries and advisories that have come in during the preceding 24 hours.

Weather maps and satellite pictures arrive from the forecast office at Toronto International Airport and from all the information he makes a pictorial syntheses on a blank map.

Mr. Saltzman's first broadcast of the evening is made at the radio station CFRB, where he gets just two minutes to sum up the general weather picture along with the forecast.

A few minutes later he's at the CBC television studios ready for his next two shows - one for Toronto, the other taped and played down the line to Montreal and Ottawa.

But the great weather blunder that stands out in Mr. Saltzman's mind occurred before his television days when an anxious expectant father asked him to predict conditions for the following day.

"I told him maybe light snow. The next day we had the heaviest snowfall on record - 24 inches in 24 hours. There wasn't anything in Toronto that moved for three days."

Dave Devall, CFTO's 33-year-old weather prophet, still keeps a memento of what he considers his greatest failure. It's the weather map for a night in January, 1964.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies, light winds and some snowflurries. Mr. Devall woke up next morning to find the "light winds" had turned to a 35-mile-an-hour blast and "snowflurries" had resulted in a 17.2 inch fall.

Cayuga OPP Open House

We attended the display and demonstration for Police Week held at the Administrative Building on May 10. This display is on tour of the Niagara Peninsula.

The Police Safety Course Film was shown. This course goes to all elementary schools. The accident prevention program conveys to youngsters pedestrian safety, cycle instruction, driver education courses and alerts children to the child molester or pervert.

We had an opportunity to have our fingerprints taken - not for the record - but handed out on cards as souvenirs.

The police scuba diving equipment was on display.

The breathalyzer was explained by a patient police officer. This equipment seemed to draw the most questions.

Colored slides were shown ranging from criminal investigation to lost children.

One lady asked "what are the requirements for becoming a police officer?" The answer was a grade ten education, 5'8" in height and weight 150 lbs., one year training and a probation period of one year.

We asked about the canine branch of the police force and learned that the dogs (usually German Shepherd) are gentle. They are used mostly for tracking and are handled by one person. Their service stretches over a seven to eight year period.

He also expressed thanks to the parents and teachers of these contestants. Mrs. Kathleen McCarthy and Mr. A. J. Pierroz, both of Hagersville were the other two judges.

Propose Painting And Cleaning Business Section

by Helen Hobbs
Some 17 members attended the Cayuga Chamber of Commerce meeting in the Municipal Building on Monday. Reeve Ted Powell was guest speaker.

It was decided to set up a committee to investigate improvement in the business area of Cayuga.

Committee members are Mrs. Gwen Smith, Hugh Slimon, Rick Meesters, Bill Calder and Phil Neary.

Mr. Powell told the meeting a student project of Mohawk College by architectural students would do a free survey and report their findings.

The meeting decided to ask for a survey by the students and try to get a report by September. A challenge was put to the merchants to improve the appearance of their establishments. Mr. Powell said unless something was done in a very short time such as painting and cleaning up present business core will die when rapid expansion comes.

In other words a whole new business section would spring up somewhere else, he said. Good business people with an eye to history as well as the future will never see that happen in Cayuga.

The next meeting will be July 12. All CoF members are invited as well as interested civic minded citizens. See you there?
