React To Education

HAGERSVILLE — During the Nov. 22 to 27 period, the public is invited to "Come and React to Education" at the Hagersville Secondary School.

On Nov. 22, 23 and 24, all interested parties may come to H.S.S. and view it during normal operating hours.

For the first time, all citizens may see inside H.S.S. during the daytime. The public will be able to see various lessons being taught using different approaches to learning. Also the various audio-visual material in the school will be on display.

The library, and other student resources will be open, including the cafeteria at noon.

The community is always welcome in the school to discuss mutual problems and to receive constructive advice. However, these three days are meant to emphasize the ideas that the school belongs to the community, it serves the needs of the community and it is concerned at all times about the community.

Anyone may come to just watch a class or so. A short tour of the school can also be arranged.

This is not parent-teacher interview time, but an opportunity to discuss the aims of education and to view the educational process.

Legion Auxiliary First To Use Bus Charter

HAGERSVILLE (Staff) Members of Branch 164, of the Royal Canadian Legion Auxiliary here were the first to utilize this centre's newly-acquired charter bus service.

The ladies chartered the bus, licensed recently for Heaslip Motors Ltd., Hagersville, for a day in Toronto. The ladies took in an afternoon of shopping and sightseeing ending up the outing at the evening performance of the Ice Capades.

The Hagersville-Toronto trip almost wound up in a collision before it reached its destination. Driver Blake Smith steered the bus around a skidding car to avoid a mishap.

The car slammed into guard rails on the highway near Hamilton and stopped before turning around and starting out again.

According to Mr. Smith, the car stopped again and the two occupants got out and headed towards a bush area. "All we could see was a cloud of dust and sparks for a minute we weren't sure we could miss it (the car)," said Mr. Smith.

The charter bus service was granted to the local firm after a series of hearings in Hagersville with the department of transport.
