

New Auger Developed At Kemptville Station

Kemptville — A new laborsaving device for emptying corncribs, developed at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, could be a boon for farmers.

Developed by the agricultural engineering division, the device looks much like a post-hole auger turned on its side. It is mounted on the three-point hitch of the tractor and can be extended about eight feet beyond the rear wheel. An upright A-frame using hydraulic power moves the auger in and out of the corncrib. It is expected the unit could be adapted to run from the power take-off of the tractor.

The unit is designed so the farmer can drive up beside the crib, remove a section from it and insert the auger. The auger will drill its way into the crib, and can be moved in and out by the hydraulic system. The corn is pulled out by the auger onto a separate conveyor located between the tractor and the crib. As the tractor moves along, the device will remove the corn from the entire width of the crib.

Estimated cost of the unit is about $800. Research funds for the project were provided by the Ontario corn committee. Some work remains to be done to determine optimum speed and size of the auger. However, officials of the agricultural engineering division say research in this area may be left for any company interested in commercial development of the unit.

to meet friends from the country... and realizing also perhaps that the country fair cannot last forever unless they do their part toward keeping it alive. If you can catch the Fair be sure to do so, you will never regret this piece of Canadian tradition.

CAYUGA

Cruising south from Caledonia, along the picturesque River Road for some 10 miles, the traveller will pass through historic York to the Village of Cayuga, which enjoys the double distinction of being located dead centre in the County, and also of being the County town. Small in stature, Cayuga, nevertheless, rates high in importance and houses among other buildings the County Court House and the County Headquarters of the Provincial Police. As the traveller approaches the Courthouse, he or she is urged to pause for a moment on the high ground surrounding it, because here you will get a truly magnificent view of the expanse of the Grand River and the far reaches of the banks on either side — land once hunted and owned by the Redman.

In the Courthouse are the offices of the judge and the various County officials and, of course, the Courtroom, on the wall of which a large Coat of Arms, and the flags borne by the 114th Bn. Brock's Rangers (the overseas unit of the 37th Haldimand Rifles in World War I) vie for attention. At the rear of the Court Room, are the jail cells, and the jailer will, usually, on request show the visitor through at least part of this.

In the Courthouse is the Haldimand Historical Museum, which houses much of the primitive equipment used by the district pioneers as well as uniforms and weapons used by the sons of Haldimand from the Fenian Raids on to World War II. Here is a spot that should be a MUST on your itinerary. The museum is open daily, Monday to Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sundays from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. Also on the courthouse grounds is an authentic log cabin, moved there from its site elsewhere in the county, and this is open on Sundays only during May, June, July and August from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you cannot be in Cayuga over the weekend, Courthouse officials will be pleased to open it for your personal inspection any day of the week.

No. 3 Highway crosses the Grand River at Cayuga and here you will find well-equipped Conway Park offering you all you might want for boating and docking facilities; camp and trailer sites — and all within a block of a modern business section. This surely is the overnight camper's dream.

Rock Point Provincial Park

Located on Lake Erie, 10 miles south of Dunnville, off Haldimand County Road No. 20, this park of 190 acres offers picnic facilities and a sand beach with a beach patrol present during peak use. At present, there are 50 campsites available.

This is one of Ontario's Provincial Recreation Parks in which the environment, facilities and services are managed to accommodate camping and day-use activities.

A feature of Rock Point is part of the shoreline which consists of shaley rock formed from sediments deposited during the Devonian Period some 300 million years ago when much of the interior of North America was occupied by a vast sea. Numerous fossils in the rocks indicate a once-abundant sea life of corals and shell animals.

Enquires for further information should be directed to the Park Superintendent, Rock Point Provincial Park, Dunnville, Ontario.

Much Of Province Is Photographed By Air

About 15,000 to 20,000 square miles of the province is photographed from the air each year, and the department of lands and forests is continuing its third complete re-photography cycle which covers all except the extreme northern portion of Ontario. Re-photography of the present cycle began in 1969.

Aerial photographs are used in forest inventory, lake surveys, land evaluation, and for mapping purposes. They are also in demand by other provincial government departments for geological surveys, route feasibility studies, and in property assessment.

Photos and maps are available to the general public. They can be obtained by writing to the department of lands and forests at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Contact prints are $1 each. Enlargements are various prices depending on the size required. The aerial photograph library is located in the department of highways building at the corner of Keele Street and Hwy. 401 in Toronto. A complete index of all photography is available at the library to locate areas of interest.
