Annual Prayer Service Scheduled For Jan. 20

Area Clergy are hoping for a church full of people when the Annual Prayer Service for Christian Unity is scheduled on Thursday, Jan. 20 at 8 p.m.

The host congregation is St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church. Because the church is located outside of Jarvis at the junction of Highway 3 and Sandusk Sideroad, the Clergy are also urging their people with cars to help provide a car pool for those who could not otherwise attend.

The guest speaker is Canon E. A. Brooks of the Anglican Parish of St. Paul's, Jarvis and Christ Church, Nanticoke. The theme suggested by the Canadian Council of Churches, evangelism department and the Catholic Conference for Ecumenical Programming is Love Me As I Have Loved You, a quotation from the sayings of Christ in the Gospel of John.

Mrs. Raymond Montague, organist and choir director for St. Anne's Congregation, will be asking for volunteers from the other participating Churches to make the choir for this service a community choir.

All five area clergy will be sharing with the choir and the Congregation in a responsive prayer of intercession. In addition, Rev. Dick Los of Ebenezer Christian Reformed Church will be leading the people in the reading of the beautiful fellowship Psalms 133 and 134. Rev. Eric Ramrattan, Wesley-Garnet United Parish, will be reading the Gospel Luke 10: 25-37, the parable Jesus told to make his point about the question: Who is my neighbor? (The Good Samaritan). Rev. Granville Taylor-Munro, Chalmers-Walpole and Knox, Jarvis Presbyterian Parish, will read the immortal 1st Corinthians, 13 chapter, personifying love in Christ.

There will be retiring offering during the service. It has been suggested by some of the clergy planning this service that consideration might be given to forwarding such offering to the Alcohol and Drug Addiction Research Foundation, a volunteer public group doing a tremendous work of educating people of all ages.

in the urgent fact that there are other and more satisfying alternatives to modern problems than that of alcoholic or drug hang-ups. Your opinions are invited. Editorial Comment:

Valuation Day

At last some information on Valuation Day that is straight forward and uncomplicated has come our way courtesy of Montreal Tax.

Valuation Day has been of some concern and misunderstanding by those whose understanding of financial matters is somewhat less than that of a chartered accountant.

As explained in the firm's newsletter, the principle of Valuation Day is "simple." Since Canada now has a capital gains taxation in its tax system, some kind of special provision is necessary to avoid taxing gains which took place before the introduction of the capital gains tax. To do otherwise would be to engage in retroactive taxation.

"In general," the firm states, "the new capital gains tax will be calculated on one-half of net capital gains realized in a taxation year. In determining taxable income, capital losses will be allowed as a deduction.

Capital gains tax is normally payable only when a gain is realized. In some circumstances the tax authorities may treat the taxpayer as if a capital gain had been realized. For example, when a person dies, leaves the country or makes a gift, the capital gains tax will be applied as if the property had been sold. No tax, however, would be payable on property gifted or passing on death to a husband or wife.

Generally, any asset now worth more than $1,000 or may in the future be sold for more than $1,000 will be subject to a capital gains tax.

One important exception is that a gain on the disposal of a taxpayer's principal residence will not be subject to tax. However, all other real estate, including summer cottages, will be subject to capital gains tax.

Farmers disposing of a farm including farm land may deduct from any capital gain an amount of $1,000 for each year in which the farm was owned. If the farmhouse was his principal residence, he may treat it and appropriate surrounding property as such and pay only on the gain from the sale of the farmland itself.

The question is, should a taxpayer run out and find the nearest expert valuator for the class of assets concerned and obtain a valuation? It is clear the law does not require such valuations to be obtained and it is not part of the government's intention to create a field day for professionals qualified at certifying values.

The firm advises that taxpayers will not need to be "galvanized into action by Valuation Day and perhaps be tied to an expression of value on that date which they may regret with hindsight, but rather to allow Valuation Day to become part of the revenue gathering lore with quiet equanimity and to deal with the tax collector when the time comes."

Safe Snowmobiling

While it hasn't been much of a winter so far for snowmobiling, it is perhaps a good idea to keep in front some of the rules of safety regarding the use of snowmobiles.

Philip J. Farmer, executive director of the Canada Safety Council, writing in a booklet published as a guide for safe snowmobiling, noted that "like other mechanized vehicles, the importance of the safe use of the snowmobile has grown with its increasing numbers, design, sophistication and speed. But, no matter how well and how safely a snowmobile may be built, the machine is only as safe as the person operating it.

"Safe operation begins with knowledge of federal, provincial, county and municipal snowmobile laws and regulations. The snowmobiler should know and observe the regulations for the areas in which he is using his snowmobile.

"Safe operation involves knowing your machine, how it operates, how to maintain it, how to ride it safely under any condition.

"Safe operation requires knowing your limitations on the snowmobile, riding within your capabilities and within the law, and using courtesy and good judgment. More and more, marked snowmobile trails are being developed throughout the snowbelt. Make use of them, obtain and obey the rules of the trails and you and all snowmobilers will gain more enjoyment.

"Remember: The careless few create snowmobiling problems for the many..."

Counter Clockwise

20 YEARS AGO
JANUARY 10, 1952.

In a light vote on Monday, Councillor Kenneth Parkinson headed the polls for re-election to the Walpole Township Council for his second term. This was the first appeal the voters, having served his first term in office by virtue of an acclamation. A close second was a newcomer to municipal politics, Harold Hopper, of Springleve. The fight for third position was a close race between Charles Sheppard, of Selkirk and Hugh Ross of Nanticoke. Only seven votes separated those two.

The Jarvis community has been shocked by the recent illness and sudden demise of George E. Miller, on Sunday, January 6 at his home in Jarvis. He was in his forty-second year.

Deceased was stricken with the illness that claimed his life only a few short weeks ago. He was admitted to Sunnybrook Hospital, in Toronto, early in November where a medical diagnosis revealed little hope for his recovery. He was allowed to return to his home here on December 2 and his condition gradually became worse until his death.

A candlelight carol service of the Nine Lessons was held in historic St. Paul's Church, Jarvis on the Festival of the Epiphany, January 6, 1952. The theme thought of the day was, the visit of the wise men to the crib of Bethlehem, the manifestation of the Christ Child to the Gentiles.

Caledonia Lawyer Named QC

Bryce Jones, Barrister of Caledonia, was among those honored by the Royal Grant of the title Queen's Counsel as proclaimed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council at Toronto, Jan. 1, 1972.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of McMaster University and of Osgoode Hall Law School and is a member of the Canadian Bar Association. The work of Mr. Jones has been mentioned in professional law reports. He has a continuing interest in legal education and he has been a busy, successful, community-minded Barrister at Caledonia since 1950.

The type of honor bestowed on Mr. Jones is quite old. In the early days of the English monarchy for a long time in the ACW settlement of disputes by the central courts there are no records of professional advocates and proceedings were informal and at times hardly distinguishable from a family quarrel.

Queen's Counsel wear black silk court robes and until 1831 the office in Britain was remunerated.

Glenney — Nie

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Charles Glenney

On Saturday, Dec. 17, 1971, at Cheapside United Church, Rev. Carl Moore and G. A. Creaser officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Vonita Loretta Nie and Dean Charles Glenney.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nie of R. R. 1 Selkirk and the groom is the second eldest son of Mrs. Marion Glenney and the late Audrey Glenney, of R. R. 5 Dunnville.

Candelabra with arrangements of chrysanthemum, white gladioli and fern decorated the church for the occasion. Anne Doughty presided at the organ with Faye Hewitt and Valerie Bradford singing I Do and Walk Hand in Hand.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor length gown of crystal satin with high neckline and bishop sleeves. The dress was trimmed with venise lace applique on the bodice and skirt. Her mantilla was edged with alecon lace and gathered to the headpiece by a band of seed pearls.

Attending the groom was Bob Glenney, brother of the groom, as best man. Bill Topp, cousin of the groom and Philip Nie, brother of the bride, were ushers. A reception and dance was held in Fisherville Community Hall following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenney will reside in Hamilton.
