Community Chest Returns

The 1972 Jarvis District Community Chest was slated for May 15 to 27 and, while it was necessary to extend the deadline, the objective was nearly met. The executive feels it will be met as there is a promise, which, if received, will bring it over the objective of $2,800.

An executive meeting was held at the home of the president Robert Doughty, at Nanticoke.

The bank balance showed $40.02 on hand from last year received too late for inclusion. The emergency fund of $400. is to be kept on hand in the local bank.

A TRAVEL JOURNAL (1)

After several months of urging by my son, Art, I finally decided to visit him and his family in Belgium, also to visit relatives in England and Wales. He had business over here so we went together by Air Canada. The journey was uneventful. Jill, Danielle and Lea Anne met us at the airport and we drove to their place which is about 20 minutes drive from Brussels.

One of the things I noticed was that three or four separate villages, each having different names, formed one large built up area with signs bearing the name of the village as you entered it. From my bedroom windows I could see three separate and, apparently, independent villages.

Each of these villages has its own shopping centre, and maybe another one a few blocks away. There is also a large supermarket, newly opened, so there is something for everybody, beer and wine are also served in the grocery stores. At one store I saw horsemeat for sale (under its own name - cheval.)

A day or so after our arrival we went to see the Battlefield of Waterloo, a few miles away. They have made this into a regular showplace. There is a large mound or really a small hill with a lion on the top and a long staircase going up it. I did not tackle it.

Beside it is a tall wooden tower. On the top storey is a railing and as you pass along, looking out, you see the whole story of the Battle in huge paintings, forming one complete picture.

We were there on Whit Monday, a holiday, and there was a large crowd. It is a very colourful display, and the last of such; our modern warfare is not only more deadly it is also less picturesque.

Like Canada, Belgium has two languages, French and Flemish. In its own area each language appears supreme, except Brussels, the capital, where either is used. I do not know anything about Belgian government affairs, these are my personal observations.

The coins are printed in both languages but not both on one coin. Postage stamps have the word for "Belgium" printed in both languages on each stamp. Belgium, of course is a democratic monarchy, again like Canada.

I do not know whether the division of the country into two languages is carried out into separate municipal divisions.

Editorial Comment:

Hellyer Defeats Bill

In a move that humiliated the federal Liberal party, Norfolk native Paul Hellyer last Friday stood alone to bring the defeat of the government's baby bonus legislation during the final moments of the Commons session before summer recess.

While he may have stood alone, the former Liberal cabinet minister, MP for Toronto-Trinity, other opposition MPs have since expressed delight that the measure had been dealt what might prove to be its death blow.

The plan was opposed because, although the baby bonus would have been increased in late 1973 for poorer families, the proposal would introduce a means test and abolish the allowance for more than one million families.

Mr. Hellyer said that although he had acted alone in the matter he had not been alone in his viewpoint. Along with some opposition support, there apparently was also some support from the Liberals too.

The death knell for the baby bonus plan, along with the death of the bill to ban all advertising of cigarettes, a welcome relief for Haldimand's neighboring tobacco farmers, are two rather telling defeats for Health Minister John Munro.

Mr. Munro spent two years drafting the proposed baby bonus bill, only to have it dumped and recently admitted that his cigarette bill would have proved a hardship on the tobacco industry.

These two incidents could perhaps point to a weakening of the once tough Trudeau armor. Come election time, which surely cannot be far off, the Liberals may be hard pressed to win re-election, unless of course, Mr. Trudeau can again wow the country.

A lot of repair work is going to have to be done between now and then.

During the stay in England the band will be performing at three concerts. Then follows a tour of Belgium with a concert in Amsterdam.

From Holland the band goes to Germany, with concerts scheduled in Cologne and Heidelberg. They then go on to Zurich, Switzerland for the final concert.

From there they travel to Paris for sightseeing and back to London for the July 30 return home.

It was back in December 1970 that the band and choir gave a Christmas concert, the first of many, which marked the beginning of a series of fund-raising events.

With the approval of the school board, Derek Bishop, school principal; the band parent committee with Bill Davis, Jerry Snyder as executive members and all the parents, other projects were planned.

In 1971 Alvin and Frank Peart opened their sugar bush for a pancake and maple syrup breakfast that proved so successful it was repeated this year.

Chicken barbecues were also held and a presentation of Calamity Kids by the Jarvis and District Drama Club brought in several dollars to help defray expenses.

The tour is costing a total of $37,000. Besides the various fund raising events every member also paid $275 towards the cost.

Woodhouse and Townsend townships will now be charged $100 for the first hour at a fire and $65 per hour for each additional hour.

The charges for Jarvis and Woodhouse remain the same at $75 for the first hour and $45 per hour afterwards.

Council also approved an increase in the payment to firemen to $3 per hour.

About 100 feet is involved and council agreed to purchase the 10 to 15 bumpers required.

Mr. Heaslip explained to council he is planning on renovating the building to provide a 50 to 20 foot area for a local doctor. The renovations include a waiting room, examining room, office and a consulting room.

The present metal siding will be taken off the building and replaced by white aluminum siding. A false front will also be constructed to hide the slanting roof.

A further attraction to the building will be a strip of sodding placed along the side of the building.

The chief also noted the force did not have its fifth police officer during the first part of the year. He said the overtime will be held down now.
