Powell said he was in favor of the resolution, except for the part about public ownership.

Reeve Richardson said he felt a number of possibilities could be explored before taking such a step as public ownership.

In other business, Deputy-Reeve Robert Gordon, of Caledonia, criticized the provincial assessment department for its officials asking questions about income and property ownership. He said he told them it "was none of their business."

Mr. Gordon's rebuke came during a discussion on the removal of the assessment department in Cayuga to Hamilton.

Councillors in many municipalities have been resentful of the assessment function being taken out of their hands and claim the job is not being done nearly as well by the province as was done by the municipalities.

Haldimand was one of the first counties in Ontario to place assessment on a county-wide basis.

Several councillors have voiced opinions that the latest move is further evidence of the growing remoteness of the government.

Hagersville Charities To Organize

HAGERSVILLE - The Hagersville and District charities will be holding an organizational meeting this Friday at 7 p.m. at the Hagersville Legion Hall.

The purpose is to once again set in motion the machinery needed to organize a successful drive.

The organization has been successful in the past two years with the drives going over the top each year. Last year the goal was set at $6,500 and a total of $6,770.25 was collected. A total of $6,700 was turned over to the nine charities involved.

The drive takes place from Oct. 15 to 31.

are doing as well on welfare.

"Those who have to pay for this are angry. Their taxes are going to help support the slothful. They are in despair and they are angry."

"We have pledged to end this nonsense in the field of unemployment insurance."

"Canadians are made of sterner stuff and Canada should be a place where the fruits of a man's labor are not taxed away to support the 'private welfare bums'."

Mr. Knowles also noted the number of defections from the Liberal Party in Ottawa. "Something is seriously wrong in Ottawa now," he said.

Mr. Knowles, who has fought a running battle with the department of health and welfare over the issue of tobacco as a health hazard, said the department does not consider the issue dead as yet.

He said that within the department, tobacco is still considered "the number one culprit and if you watch the terror advertising, you can see that this is very much a live issue."

"The industry is being persecuted," he said.

Mr. Knowles was nominated by Don Duxbury of Walpole Township and his seconds were Sharon Morrison, of Windham Township, and Ted Fryszak, of Townsend Township.

Lincoln Alexander, MP from Hamilton West, was the guest speaker for the evening.

category four teacher would get $8,900 to $16,100 after 14 years.

Next year the salary will be $7,300 and $13,000 for a category one teacher to between $8,000 and $16,400 for a category four teacher.

Vice-principals will earn between $18,500 and $20,300 this year, rising next year to between $19,250 and $21,150.

Principals will earn between $21,000 and $23,500 this year with increases to $22,000 to $24,500 next year.

Mr. Duxbury said the salary scale arrived at fits in the middle of the range of salaries being paid by boards across the province with the exception of boards in large cities.

He said the county lacks the industrial assessment to be able to afford to be near the top, but being close to heavily urbanized boards such as Wentworth, it cannot afford to pay its teachers at the minimum rate either.

The new contract was arrived at after seven months of talks.

ship, what had become of the recommendations sent in by Haldimand County.

Haldimand recommended the creation of a Haldimand - only region, to be included with Norfolk with the advent of the Steel Company of Canada plant at Nanticoke.

Mr. Richardson said that all 50 briefs received, had received consideration.

"Not every recommendation could be adopted, but each was considered very carefully before my recommendations were put into the report," he said.

bank, high water table, extensive bank erosion and high lake levels.

"All these points would indicate the possibilities of pollution of Lake Erie itself or the ponding of sewage in and around cottages, thus causing major public health problems," the report states.

"Swimming areas have been tested along Haldimand County and in early May 'excellent sample results' were received. However, in 'some areas the bacteriological counts increase as the cottages are used to cases where the beaches have to be placarded. This again would indicate the local pollution problems caused by these cottages.'"

In the Peacock Point area the health unit carried out a study in 1970 which checked 158 premises out of a total of 250 and more than 30 per cent showed visual evidence of malfunctioning systems.

"Many of the cottage owners admitted to problems other than the visual ones; for example, hidden lines over the lake bank, into the lake."

"Of the approximately 3,000 cottages in Haldimand, it is estimated that 10 to 15 per cent are used for year-round dwellings. Also 80 to 85 per cent would be on undersized lots of 3,000 to 7,000 square feet on which it would be impossible to install an adequate subsurface sewage disposal system.

Dr. Washburn suggests that in the Peacock Point, Hoovers Point and Featherstone Point areas it may be economically feasible to install sanitary sewers and sewage treatment.

Other areas could be handled by temporary measures such as holding tanks in which the effluent must be pumped out and removed for treatment and disposed elsewhere.

For year-round residents this would cost in the area of $1,000 a year to pump out the holding tanks.

Dr. Washburn, however, cautions that the holding tank, even the ones used for only the summer - cottages, may create more problems in regard to the method of disposal used for this effluent.

"The Haldimand - Norfolk Lakefront Study is now underway to preview this situation. Until this study is released, action should be taken to restrict further development," he says.
