Charles MacNaughton, the federal election on Oct. 30 and municipal elections on Dec. 4 are all contributing to the delay in the report's release.

Mr. Grove said he had hoped the report would be ready by the time municipal councils were getting ready for nominations, but could not promise it by that time.

"This does leave you in a sensitive position," he said.

Reeve John Kincaid said council had not yet decided on a nomination night, since this year anyone with the signatures of 10 ratepayers can come into the municipal office and be listed for nomination.

No decision has been made on whether to call a ratepayers meeting either, he said.

"Right now, we are just trying to clean up the work at hand," Reeve Kincaid said.

As to the length of term municipal councillors might be elected to, either one year followed by the implementation of regional government in 1974 or the regular two years term, Mr. Grove said he could not answer.

The implementation of regional government had been hinted at by Mr. McKeough for Jan. 1, 1974, but "it is now up to the new minister," Mr. Grove said.

"Obviously, a lot also hinges on the development at Nanticoke with Stelco and Texaco. If Stelco goes ahead then there will be a large influx of workers and there will be a need for an updated version of the local government system," he said.

Reeve Kincaid said he would be interested in seeing the figures on building in the village for the year. "I think I'll be right in saying we are the 'growingest' municipality in Haldimand," he said.

"I feel we are developing as much as we can and still keeping the character of the village intact. Homes and apartments are being filled as quickly as they are built and in other Haldimand municipalities this is not happening."

"I think it is the services we can offer, such as the hospital, the schools and the business section," he said.

Mr. Grove noted that under regional government Hagersville would be "part of a larger municipality."

Deputy Reeve Ross Slote asked about the pending agreement with neighboring municipalities regarding fire department coverage.

Mr. Grove said he would advise that Hagersville not "rush into any financial determinations."

On the question of the supply of Lake Erie water to Hagersville, Mr. Grove said there was "no point in working on a pipeline until regional government takes shape. There is not too much point in getting into design work yet."

at the nomination meeting. Mr. Knowles had indicated that Dr. Marshall is seeking office to satisfy personal ambitions.

Dr. Marshall said his motivations are the same as anyone else's.

"If I can make a contribution to the people of the riding and the country, I feel I should," he said.

and this should be done immediately.

Mr. Knowles said the act made "it too easy to get benefits. The government has found out too many workers are only going to work the minimum eight weeks, quit working and apply for benefits."

"The system is simply unworkable. Decentralization of the offices would help."

"The act was designed as a crisis measure, but in the meantime it has gone into debt to the order of between $400 million and $800 million."

"This is inexcusable and the act will have to be overhauled."

Mr. Pos said the unemployment act should provide worthwhile benefits to those truly unable to work, but for those who can work, some means should be provided for them to work and "make a worthwhile contribution to society."

"It is the government's responsibility to provide jobs," he said.

Mr. Pos drew the warmest response the generally reserved crowd when he proposed a type of non-strike.

He said that to the trade unions, the threat of a strike is the "only weapon they have to acquire the benefits necessary to maintain an acceptable standard of living."

But one way of dealing with strikes might be that when negotiations between the company and the union break down, the workers continue to operate, but at no wages while the company continues to supply the goods, but takes no profit.

The money accrued while this is going on could be set aside in a trust fund and after settlement had been reached, the workers would receive their back pay and the companies their back profits.

Thus the only people to be hurt in a non-strike would be the two parties and the public would not be deprived of its goods or services, he said.

New Rector To Be Inducted

The Rt. Rev. Walter E. Bagnall, Bishop of Niagara will be in Jarvis on Oct. 1 to induct the new Rector of the Parish of Jarvis and Nanticoke, Rev. R. Douglas Perry. He will be assisted by the Archdeacon of Erie, the Ven. F. Allen Hill of Welland, and the Rural

Dean of Haldimand, the Rev. Canon D. G. Hue-ther of Dunnville.

The sermon will be preached by the Ven. E. Rigby who is Secretary-Treasurer of the Diocese of Niagara.

The service used will be a new order, approved by the Bishop, which stresses the shared nature of the ministry of the church. Members of the parish are reminded of their part in setting a Christian example, growing in worship and sacrament, and witnessing to the world. The new Rector is charged with the responsibility of baptizing, studying and preaching, marriage counselling, ministering to the sick and bereaved, absolving the penitent, and celebrating the Holy Eucharist.

An informal reception will follow the service in the Parish Hall.

Ruth - Linklater Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Ruth

White and yellow daisies, pink carnations and blue cornflowers decorated Wesley United Church on Aug. 19 when, in a candlelight service Jane Bryce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryce Linklater and Paul Edmund son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Edmund Ruth of Omenee exchanged marriage vows. Rev. Martin Rule was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over peau de soie, designed with semi empire waist and bishop sleeves. The collar, cuffs and yolk were trimmed with lace as well as the skirt.

A pale blue sash and matching hair bow completed her attire. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses, white daisies, pink and blue corn flower arranged with baby's breath and a pale blue velvet ribbon.

Mrs. Drew Mudge was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Barbara and Rebecca Linklater, sisters of the bride, Heather Ruth, sister of the groom and Kathryn Bailey cousin of the bride. They were gowned in flocked dacron polyester floor length gowns, designed with semi empire waists, bishop sleeves with ruffled cuffs and collars. The bridesmaids wore white gowns with white trimmed with cotton lace and satin ribbon in colors matching their skirts which were in blue, pink and yellow respectively.

They wore bows in their hair in colors corresponding to that of their skirts. They carried nosegays of daisies and cornflowers in shades of blue, pink and yellow, with ribbons matching their skirts and hair bows.

Wanda Elmhurst and Lynn Bartlett, niece of the groom and cousin of the bride respectively, were flower girls wearing identical floor length frocks of white dacron polyester with pastel flocking and matching sash and lace trim. Small ribbon roses adorned their hair.

They carried nosegays matching those carried by the bridesmaids.

Jay McLaren of Pembroke, a friend of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were John Linklater, brother of the bride, Murray Faulkner, of Lambeth, cousin of the groom, John Snider, of Lindsay and John Walter, of Guelph, both friends of the groom.

The groom and groomsmen were dressed in navy blue blazers and white trousers with navy striped ties and white shoes to complete their outfits.

Don Smith, of Caladonia, presided at the organ and Roberta Bourne of Toronto, a cousin of the bride, sang One Hand One Heart just prior to the vows.

At the reception in the Jarvis Community Centre, the bride's mother received the guests, gown in a floor length dress of figured pink and mauve organza over taffeta.

Her corsage was a white gardenia. The mother of the groom assisted, wearing a floor length gown of aqua peau d'ange with beaded collar. She carried a white daisy purse corsage.

Doug Shippey and his dance group entertained the guests with music selections following the reception dinner.

After the honeymoon, the couple will reside in Simcoe where the groom is on the teaching staff of Simcoe Composite School.

Families are one good reason why Dr. David Marshall is a Liberal. And he knows the problems of raising a family today. First hand.

David wants to protect his family. Just like you do. That's why he's fighting personally for more law and order, and federal grants for Dental Care for children. That's why he's concerned about the quality of environment in our area, and protecting the riding for future Canadians. For his family and yours.

The Hamilton Spectator of Jan. 30 1971 quoted Dave as saying, "I'm very much a believer in family life. I believe it lends mental stability and allows an individual to work. It enables us to do much more."

Dave believes that "The strength of the country is in strong families." And he is committed to preserving and protecting them. His as well as yours.

And when a Liberal member speaks, a Liberal government listens.

On October 30th, vote for Dave Marshall. - An able young man to serve you.
