AT H.S.S.
 Hagersville Secondary School is feeling the pinch of the minimal yearly ceiling set by the Ministry of Education.

Derek Bishop, principal of H.S.S., said Tuesday this year's school budget has been cut, some courses have had to go, classes are larger (there will be 40 kids in some grade 9 classes), the student to teacher ratio has climbed from 16.7 last year to 17.1 and there are four fewer teachers in the county.

The cutback is partly due to a decline in enrollment, Mr. Bishop explained, but is also because each year's ceiling increase becomes smaller.

Hagersville's enrollment has dropped from 832 in '72-'73 to 800 this year. The school is down one class of students, but there are three fewer teachers working in it, he said. And, the total number of teachers has dropped from 56 to 47 during the last two years.

In order to satisfy teacher requirements, Thomas Wells, minister of education will have to come down with realistic ceilings for the '74-'75 school year, giving local boards enough income to service the school the way they and the community wish it. And, the ceiling has to allow for reasonable teacher salary and budget increases, Mr. Bishop said.

He feels the Haldimand Board of Education has handled the ceiling problem very well and made it hurt as least as possible.

The ceilings are announced for a two year period and some boards spent the majority of their allotted increase during the first year. However, Haldimand split it half and half, so we haven't been hit as hard as some schools, Mr. Bishop added.

FOR EXAMPLE
 If the community and county board wanted to have a special French class, they wouldn't be able to have it under the present ceiling structure.

At one time, the board could spend X number of dollars per student as set by the province and perhaps an extra $25 for some special course requested by the public. The extra $25 was paid by the people.

This can no longer be done. Under the present system, the board could be penalized if they over spent their ceiling. And, since the province pays 60 per cent of education costs out of their coffers, they could withhold grants.

Now, if a board wants to provide a special course, it has to be done out of the allotted dollars under the ceiling and they must cut down elsewhere.

Mr. Bishop explained that this is especially hard for Toronto school boards because they need special classes for new immigrants.

 them, Miss Vanathen of London, Miss Maaskant of Clinton and Mrs. VanderGang of Toronto are new to the school.

Mr. Weening will also be working on contributions from the Jarvis School to the bi-annual Community of Christian Schools' journal. This paper, which serves the Hamilton-Wellandport-Dunnville area helps explain what Christian Education is all about.

Mr. Weening told the Record that they are trying to make the community a little aware of Christian education, but at the same time, they are not knocking the public school system.

Christian Education stems from the knowledge that Christ is the centre of all life and this just can't be put off until Sunday, he explained. "It should be brought out in everyday living." The school educates children to know and understand Christian living and "we try to do that in every subject area," he said. Christian education trains children to be good citizens, an asset to the community, to contribute to the community and to help fellow man. Every grade has about a half hour Bible Study a day, he continued, but it doesn't deal with the actual doctrine - that's for the church. The class is more a history of the Bible, biblical knowledge and how it applies to Christian living.

Of course, Mr. Weening added, it doesn't put out the perfect child. They are still individuals.

NOTICE
 The Canadian Christian School will begin classes on Wednesday, Sept. 5th at 9 p.m.

 part-time workers.

The company has appeared twice before the Liquor Board, but the decision each time was that the company was making too large a request. So, they sent in news clippings showing the development expected in the area and requested Stelco, Texaco and Bob Lysch, clerk of Jarvis, to write letters expressing a need for expanded facilities in Jarvis.

The Inn's plans for the 200 person lounge include entertainment and a dance floor. And, they hope the Board will give them the green light soon, so that they can begin construction within the next six to eight months.

On The Farm Front

Research reports on silage additives for beef and dairy cattle so far have shown that the additives can economically replace part of the other protein supplements in the beef and dairy rations with comparable results. More information on this subject is to be presented at a Soybean Tour to be held by the Haldimand Soil and Crop Improvement Association on the evening of September 11.

Further information from Haldimand Milk Committee indicates that contestants eligible for the Dairy Princess Competition at the Caledonia Fair on Friday evening, September 28, are to be daughters of dairy farmers or dairy farm employees. Age limits are 16 to 25. Committee secretary, Bill Hurkmans, Fisherville, would provide any further information that may be required.

Events coming up for 4-H Homemaking Club members in Haldimand include a Garden Club Achievement Day at Kohler on Wednesday, August 29th. Parents, friends, relatives and any others interested are invited to attend. Leaders of 4-H

Homemaking Clubs will soon be taking part in Workshops for the fall project "Accessories For the Bedroom." Federation News

by Otto Crone

The Ontario Government established a committee to define and classify farmers. The following is a brief prepared by O.F.A. and submitted to that committee.

"It would seem logical to define farming first, and then a farm or farmland and then a farmer, each of the latter two definitions being tied to the first. The following are then submitted as possible practical definitions.

Farming - That activity carried on by incorporated or unincorporated individuals resulting in the production of food, fibre and animals for the use of man. In particular, the production of the following is farming; forage and sod crops, grains and feed crops; tobacco; dairy animals and dairy products; poultry and poultry products; livestock including beef cattle, sheep, swine, horses, ponies, mules or goats, including the breeding, feeding and grazing of any or all such animals; bees and apiary products; Christmas trees; trees; fur animals; fruits of all kinds, including grapes, nuts and berries; mushrooms, vegetables, floral and greenhouse products; nursery stock; and all other crops regulated under the Farm Products Marketing Act of Ontario.

Farmland - Any land composed of mineral or organic soil or both, which is used exclusively for farming; including land required for buildings used in farming.

A Farm - Consists of eleven or more contiguous acres of farmland. If less than eleven contiguous acres, farmland should be considered a farm if more than $5,000.00 of gross income from farming is produced from or on the land.

A Farmer is any incorporated or unincorporated individual person who owns and operates, owns and shares crops, or leases and operates, a farm for the purpose of farming.

Farmer may be classified into various categories based on criteria of income, income source, volume or amount of production, amount of contribution to marketing boards or associations, etc. These classifications will, of necessity, be different for each piece of legislation based primarily on the objective of the legislation. Said classification and criteria be an integral part of legislation developed in conjunction with O.F.A. to implement same.

At no time should an individual's apparent wealth or poverty be a direct criteria for classification.
