Co-adjutor Bishop Visits Jarvis- Nanticoke Parish

When the Right Rev. John Bothwell becomes Bishop of Niagara this summer he will come to the post with a unique knowledge of the Diocese he is taking over. Elected two years ago as co-adjutor bishop, he has had time to make a pastoral visit to over 100 parishes in the Diocese. As co-adjutor he will automatically succeed when Bishop Walter Bagnall retires at the end of this month.

Bishop Bothwell paid his official visit to Jarvis and Nanticoke last week. Following the pattern he has established, he conferred with the Rector and his family, with churchwardens and later with the Parish Councils of the two churches.

He asked members to identify both good things and bad things about church life. Nanticoke reported that despite a freeze on residential development the church has been able to hold its own. Several families who have moved away still come back to church and numbers of vacationers come to worship. There is good fellowship among the congregation. Jarvis members said the number of young people in their choir is a matter for rejoicing, due to the work of Miss Rosemary Dell and Mrs. Helen Phibbs. It was reported that there has been a small but noticeable increase in attendance and giving over the past eighteen months. A few new families have come because of the industrial expansion in the area.

Among the difficulties is the problem of contacting new families that come into Jarvis, and the Bishop emphasized the need for lay visiting to reinforce the Rector's visits. There was considerable discussion about the problem of keeping teenagers. "I have four teen-agers; that's why I'm so grey" remarked Bishop Bothwell. He emphasized the need for adults and young people to sit down and discuss the church and its faith. Adults can't rely on authoritative statements, because young people are taught to question everything. Adults have to have a better grounding in the faith themselves, and the clergy are anxious to oblige with the Bible study and discussion where there is a demand.

It was observed that many young people take a serious view of moral and spiritual issues, and find little of comfort in the attitudes of their parents.

Bishop Bothwell said that in many places the work of the church is seen primarily in terms of maintaining buildings, to the neglect of the real work of the church. It was easy in the 50's to involve people in building the new churches that were needed, but it is not so easy to attract people to the less tangible work of the church in evangelism and mission.

In many areas, the church is too dependent on the professional clergy. The Bishop cited examples of effective teaching of Sunday school and bible classes where the lay people were deeply involved. He also told of successes in block teaching rather than a year-round program of Sunday schools. In some places Sunday school is on Saturday!

A widely held concern was expressed that the church is going in for a change merely for the sake of change. Bishop Bothwell tried to identify some of the reasons behind various changes and suggested the church must be able to cope with change in a constructive way.

Jarvis Cubs Camp At Wetaskwin

The leaders of the 1st Jarvis Cub Pack took 17 Cubs and 2 Scouts to Camp Wetaskwin at St. Catharines for a weekend of camping. The Cubs left on Friday night June 8 and returned June 10.

The weather decided to be beautiful so that the Cubs could take part in a full program of hiking, crafts, swimming, interpack games and a huge campfire on Saturday night. Approximately 240 Cubs were present from Haldimand at the Cuboree.

The theme of the Cuboree was International and each pack represented a different country. On Sunday morning the Cubs had interpack visits. The 1st Jarvis pack visited the 2nd Hagersville pack where each Cub, leaders and their cooks were painted in war paint.

To the boys this was one of the many highlights of the weekend. All the boys had a good time and came home thoroughly tired out and sunburned.

The Kingdom Of Nod

by Derek Bishop

Once upon a time, in the faraway Kingdom of Nod, a group of senior students planned a farewell party for the last day of school. To be different, and since it was a very warm Kingdom, the party was planned for the early morning at the quarry where the swimming was beautiful. Since there were no birds to listen to, and the students liked to sing, they invited a guitarist from Montreal to play for them. Since they had had no breakfast, some brought beer and some brought rye, and one was even going to bring champagne!

Some of them worried, because they knew that the King and his Prime Minister did not like their drinking parties. Others worried that their parents might object to their celebrating so early. The boy with the champagne did not get to the party because his mother and father became very angry and threatened to call the school. Another student did not make it because she was told that if she went she could find somewhere else to sleep that night. Nasty parents in the Kingdom of Nod.

The party went on, and some drank little and some drank lots. But all were so conscientious that they made it to school by 9:00 a.m. Unfortunately, the King and Prime Minister had heard about the party and had formed a reception committee at the school. Three of the students, and the guitarist (who, having lost his audience, followed it to school) were sent home to sober up. Their names were inscribed in the Book of Immaturity. Others were reprimanded and reminded that they were still responsible to their parents, since they were living with them.

Not having had enough time between 7:30 and 9:00 to consume all their breakfast, some of the students brought the leftovers to school. The Prime Minister confiscated this, and in an official ceremony, invited one of the partygoers to help clean the school's drainage system with it.

The King and Prime Minister were very thankful that some parents in the Kingdom of Nod cared enough about their children to stop them from making fools of themselves. Perhaps if more cared, all students might live happily ever after!

The Group Committee would like to extend a special thanks to the leaders and ladies who made this camp-out possible for our boys.

With Pen In Hand

IN OUR WAY
Gleam from your eyes when you hear that sweet love music,
My heart starts to sway, oh that lovin' music,
I think about love, think of love in that way,
You know how I mean, when I say love is real.

By the way I'm doing fine,
By the way, love will be mine,
If something should get too much
She'll be there with a loving touch,
To ease me down,
So I don't care enough,
About the world, and all that fuss,
My love is blind.

Hoping that you'll find love someday,
Hoping that you'll find love someday,
It's no life without love, hear what I say,
In this world of regret and shuffle, no time to play,
Let the world go waltzing by,
We'll meet the devil by and by,
In our way.

Love gets deeper with each mile,
Then together we'll ride high,
All the way,
I think about love in that way,
You know how I mean when I say,
Love is blind.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor,
West Haldimand Record
Jarvis, Ontario.

Dear Editor:
This letter is written in the interest of rousing action from the Governments to create employment on a very worthwhile project, which will be beneficial to the future generations, particularly, overhead transport, too much of our farmland is being put under tarmac and concrete - and the population is continually growing.

Haldimand Instead Of Pickering
It is with interest that I read about a suggested new airport and also all the various statements by our MPs and letters from the general public. Surely it is time that all concerned took pace back and surveyed the situation. The most obvious place for a modern, international airport is not in the midst of suburbia, but in a beneficial location for all concerned including pilots and travellers.

The location, I suggest, should be where planes can "take off" into a prevailing wind and away from high-rise buildings, farms and residences, and that I have been told that Canada is a land of untold resources. We have also untold and unlimited unemployment skilled workers, patiently waiting for work, so then I make a plea to all Members of Parliament to get off the political seats and roll up their sleeves in order to create worthwhile work for the benefit of all. Let us move into the Twentieth Century!

Yours truly,
Maurice R. Payne

Federation News

by Otto Crone
"Threshold of change" is the title of the Haldimand-Norfolk study on Local Government and Land Development that has been released recently. The Honourable John White on May 31 told the Ontario legislature these documents are a basis for discussion for a consultative process to lead to proposals for the benefit of these counties.

These documents should be read by everyone in the county, so that they can participate in discussions later in the year.

The recommendation for the tour of Caledonia, and part of Oneida Townships, has caused some surprises as the Township of Seneca, Oneida and also the Federation of Agriculture made submissions to the study director, asking that this county remain intact and not be cut up. These recommendations till now have gone unheeded.

People in the areas that are affected will have to make their views known in the strongest way possible, as soon as the opportunity arises, if they still have the same feelings as they did in 1971.

The Federation of Agriculture will be studying these study reports carefully and participate in the consultative process which we expect to take place later this summer.

FATHER'S MEANING IS

To help a fellow learn to be a man,
Through youth's fumbling awkward way,
Then stand by to help when he can,
To take a place in manhood one day.

During boyhood having someone understand,
The problems a fellow has to face,
In meeting life's ever growing demand,
To one day find manhoods, upright place.

Then there's girls and their taunting lure,
To understand a frightening sort of plan,
To help face this is a father's meaning sure,
And with father's guiding, learning to be a man.

Companies Back Land Assembly Scheme

Four well known and "very well financed" companies are behind the mammoth land assembly project in the Townsend - Woodhouse area.

At a meeting held in Toronto Thursday night, the identity of the developers comprising the consortium was revealed. It consists of four companies with assets in the "hundreds of millions of dollars."

Victoria Wood Development Corporation Inc., Sifton Properties Limited, Revenue Properties Company Limited and the Metropolitan Trust Company optioned 14,000 acres of land adjacent to the Nanticoke industrial development earlier this year.

"Victoria Wood Development Corporation, one of Canada's largest builders of fine homes... is presently constructing homes and townhouses in Toronto, North York, Scarborough, Mississauga, Milton, Hillsburgh, Barrie, St. Catharines, Brampton, Bramalea, Oakville and Meadowvale, and expects to construct over 1,500 homes in 1973."

Morris Emer is president of the company. "Sifton Properties Limited has been a builder and developer for the past fifty years in the London area. It presently has 625 units under construction which consists of both rental and for sale housing and condominium, in London, Guelph and Brampton... The commercial and industrial experience of the Company is in office complexes, shopping centres and industrial buildings on the London market.

"Its present plans for 1973-74 are to research and develop a modular concept as yet untried in the Ontario market."

Mowbray Sifton is president of the company. "Revenue Properties Company Limited is a large diversified real estate company... currently developing approximately 900 apartments, approximately 400 townhouses in joint ventures with others, and four industrial buildings. The Company is also a large developer of lots for residential use..."

Maxwell Goldbar is the president. "Stewart Ripley is the president of the Metropolitan Trust."
