Hymn Books Dedicated Sunday

"It is not sorrowful to remember sorrow" a strange thing to say? Contradictory, perhaps? Anyone who has ever quipped that "Truth is stranger than fiction" will realize that this is one of the most moving illustrations of that fact. We don't lose the fact of the sorrow. Time has helped love and appreciation and other blessings to take away the shock and maturated the grief of it.

Sunday morning at Knox, the number of young men and their many friends was a most gracious lift to the atmosphere of worship of youthful reverence.

The occasion was the dedication of beautiful books of praise. The beauty was perhaps best understood as the beauty of holiness. The warm, human spirit of remembrance, of memorializing a time of special sharing.

The Jarvis Bantam hockey team used the morning service, in company with their friends, to show deep abiding respect and high regard for a young man who had been their coach and friend, James A.

Walker. In each book of praise, the name of the team member was inscribed with that of his coach. The assistant coach had provided two of the hymnals.

Of the 139 books, there were also memorials for four of Knox's elders, Albert Pettit, Will J. Elliott, Wallace Mitchell and James E. Cripps, placed by their families and friends. Others had provided for additional copies of the book, each in turn representing a personal memorial for a loved one.

The Jarvis Bantams were supported by many interested people in the community, because their coach, James Walker served in a special capacity, sponsored by the local I.O.O.F. No. 191.

There is quiet dignity, even among fun-loving youth when the occasion is one of showing appreciation for the friendship and devotion of a young man who cared enough to take time to give of his talents and person for them. "Against such there is no law" (Galatians 5:23.)

Bits 'n Pieces

S.P.I.C.E. (Students participating in Community Education) The Ministry of Education and the Haldimand County Board of Education are sponsoring a summer recreation programme for interested public school students, July 3 to August 10 at Hagersville Secondary School.

Numerous activities, including swimming, volleyball, badminton, gymnastics, dancing, drama, hikes and arts and crafts will provide your child with a summer he or she will never forget.

Students in Grades 1 to 4 will meet from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Students in Grades 5 to 8 will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. By alternating days and times, we hope that those taking swimming lessons or other lessons will be able to make up for what they missed possibly the day before.

Registration will be July 3 at Hagersville Secondary School at the time which your child would come ordinarily, at which time a fee of 50¢ will be collected.

Students organizing the activities for the summer are from the local high school and are experienced in such a field as they have also organized a Saturday morning programme for public school students in Grades 7 and 8. The students are Penny Hoover, Cathy Lane, Janet Lint, Anthony Vanschie and Linda Winger.

TRAVEL IN ONTARIO?

"Travel in Ontario" is printed in bold black letters on two Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism folders sent to the Record during the last two weeks.

However, one ministry of tourism newsletter, with accompanying photo, promotes Quebec City ("to savor Quebec, one must take time") and the other, Montreal ("city of contrast and one of the most cosmopolitan landmarks in North America").

At first glance, it seems ironic and questioning. Is this how OUR tourist department spends OUR money?

But, Ontario and Quebec are apparently working together to promote the travelling of "Heritage Highways" - those ribbons of pavement which follow the canoe routes and foot paths of explorers, fur traders, pioneers and homesteaders through the two provinces from Niagara Falls to Perce on Quebec's Gaspé Peninsula.

And, to travel to Quebec, many Ontarians have to drive through much of the province to reach Quebec.

But, both letters sell the two cities so well that maybe those of us who have little time will fly out so that we can enjoy Quebec. "The symbol of where Canada began" and Montreal, "the hostess city of world events" even longer.

If so, we certainly hope Quebec is doing as good a job promoting Ontario.

JARVIS CITY SITE

Members of the Haldimand-Norfolk Study Committee and other area municipal officials had an opportunity to hear why a new city should be located northwest of Jarvis instead of Woodhouse township last Wednesday night.

Professor Norman Pearson of the University of Western Ontario, a chartered town planner retained a consortium of developers who have optioned 14,000 acres near Jarvis, explained why the city should be here rather than the area recommended in the Haldimand-Norfolk Study.

Mr. Pearson went into great detail explaining the factors used to determine this site and answered questions from the audience. Reasons for the Jarvis site selection were outlined in the Record's June 14th issue.

Robert E. Mann of Simcoe told the Record earlier that public meetings would be held in Haldimand and Norfolk counties after this meeting with the Study group.

PLAYING BALL

Ball season is well under way and it is encouraging to see so many children involved in this team sport.

However, it has been brought to the Record's attention that some children are dropping out of ball - NOT because they have lost interest, but because they seldom or never have an opportunity to play.

Even a poor player enjoys and needs the encouragement of a turn at bat. After all, they do come out to the game and they certainly won't improve if they are ignored, while only the best play.

Winning isn't always the most important part of a game.

William Knowles MP, (Haldimand-Norfolk) is still pressing for changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act.

In the House of Commons last week, he read passages from "Agricultural Labour Shortage," a brief prepared by Norfolk County Council. The brief does not condemn the Unemployment Insurance Commission, but it says there are serious faults with the system.

"The first is the short qualifying period of eight weeks. . . . We found time after time that workers would only put in eight weeks of labour at any one place, to satisfy the qualification required by the Unemployment Insurance Act. . . . Therefore, we find it absolutely expedient to increase this qualification period to as much as 30 weeks. Labour in the community generally starts in mid-April and continues until the end of November."

IMPRESSIVE

Deputy-reeve of Hagersville, Norm Crawford, said at Monday night's council that he was very impressed with proposed plans for a city to be located near Jarvis.

Mr. Crawford attended a meeting held in Jarvis by a consortium of developers to explain why their site is better than the Woodhouse town site recommended in the Haldimand-Norfolk Study.

"It was a very good sell job. . . . I was exceedingly impressed," he said.

Councillor Dominic Vanni argued that experienced planners chose the Woodhouse Town site and they don't "have an ax to grind."

SITTING ON FENCE

Eric Grove, assistant director of the Haldimand-Norfolk Study told Hagersville council Monday night they should decide which region they wish to be in - Nanticoke Creek or Central Haldimand. He said the Study group were "sitting on the fence" as to where they should put Haldimand and "there's room for change."

FINDING FAULT

Do we realize in finding fault, That often the faults we see, In others eyes may not be fault, So the fault, is with what we see.

Remembering we have to look to find, And search for fault in what others do, Which suggests a weakened jealous mind, Unless fault finding, has a helpful view.

The importance with helpful fault found, Is that it finds helpful action as well, So the kind of fault finding, is also found, This everyone can easily and surely tell.

Board Extends Thanks

The Chairman and members of the Haldimand County Board of Education have asked me to extend their thanks to the Jarvis Fire Department for their efforts in bringing the recent fire under control at the Walpole South Public School. They also wish to pass on their appreciation for the time they spent securing the premises pending arrival of the Fire Marshall.

It was also pleasing to note the generosity of so many local residents who were kind enough to offer their assistance in cleaning up this school following this catastrophe.

On The Farm Front

One good insecticide to control alfalfa weevil is a hot dry sunny day. Cutting and quickly removing the protection of the hay crop on that kind of day will quickly reduce the weevil population.

With the later planting season this year, weed control could affect the corn crop differently. For example, the oil in the normal oil and atrazine treatment could more seriously affect the corn crop if treated on a hot day. Close attention to the directions in publication 75, Guide to Chemical Weed Control will be important.

A cereal leaf beetle alert has been announced for our area. One field at Caistorville apparently was infested enough to warrant spraying. Feeding by the larva and adult is in long narrow strips on the leaves of oats and barley. Sevin and Malathion are the chemicals recommended for control. Details are available at the county agriculture office.

wheat marketing plan amounted to 75.9 percent. The Honourable William A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture and Food, has accordingly accepted of the Farm Products Marketing Board that the Ontario Wheat Producers' Marketing Plan be amended to provide for agency marketing of wheat.

The expanded authority will be implemented in time to apply to the 1973 crop. All producer sales of Ontario wheat will now be to the Ontario Wheat Producers' Marketing Board through appointed agents. Wheat used on a producer's own farm or sold to another producer for his use will be exempt from the regulations.

A review of the production of corn hybrids recommended for sale in Ontario between 1968 and 1972 showed that on the average single crosses outyielded three-way crosses by 7 percent and double crosses by 11 percent.
