

Former Jarvis Girl In "Mainstream"

Shane Bennett, Peter Watson, Nancy Dale, Ivan Brideau and Garfield MacDonald of Mainstream.

"Mainstream" - an Oakville music group has been selected to play in the presence of H.R.H. Princess Anne, on her visit to Camp Petawawa the week of June 12-17.

The Camp is celebrating its 125th Regimental Birthday and Princess Anne will be honorary corporal of the week.

Prime Minister Trudeau has also been invited to attend.

Mainstream will be playing in one of the Junior Ranks clubs for enlisted men.

The group has been together for 4 1/2 years and consists of Garfield McDonald, lead guitar, Ivan Brideau, bass, Peter Watson, drums, with Nancy Dale and Shane Bennett as front singers.

They're on a very listenable climb into the world of entertainment with a versatile style that covers jazz, rock blues and country music.

They plan to begin their program on the big night June 16, with a mixed set of ballads, and move from the songs of the thirties to today's hit parade. Requests will end the program.

The group is mostly Oakville based. Garfield McDonald, 26, and Nancy, 26, are married with three children. Ivan, 24, is also a resident of Oakville. Peter, 25, and Shane, 29, are from Hamilton. Mainstream

EMO Plan For Jarvis

Jarvis Council gave Nelson Otterman, EMO co-ordinator for Haldimand County, the go-ahead to develop a peacetime emergency plan for the Village at last week's council meeting.

He is responsible for preparing a peacetime proposal for the county's 15 municipalities which would cover such unexpected disasters as tornadoes, floods, airplane crashes, railway car and truck accidents (eg. carrying chemicals or fuels).

Mr. Otterman will write Jarvis' plan and Bev. Carson became the Home Economist for Haldimand and Norfolk Counties on March 1. Mrs. Carson has served in that capacity for several years in Brant. She replaces Betty Covell who is now working in Alberta.

Haldimand farmers who wish assistance with Income Tax Filing problems are reminded of the meeting on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 28 at Kohler. Explanations on farmers' income tax start at 1:30 p.m. with Lyall MacLachlan, Farm Management Specialist, and F. Patterson of the Department of National Revenue.

hibit at the show and be used on special permit. Others in Class A and B are restricted to licensed exterminators and applicators, including farmers and foresters. Class C and D chemicals are available to the general public.

Only licensed dealers can sell pesticides in Classes A, B, and C. Guidelines have also been indicated for the proper storage and display of such chemicals. To prevent misuse of pesticides and to help trace sources of pollution, dealers must keep records of sales for Class A and B chemicals.

Farmers will have to verify that chemicals will be used on their home farms or rented land. Farmers doing custom spraying, must be licensed and registered by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment, Pesticides Control Section, Toronto.

"Strong Market For Lamb And Mutton" Says Specialist

If you want to expand your farm investment into livestock, but are working within a limited budget, consider raising sheep, says D.J. Stevenson, sheep specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. There is a strong market for lamb and mutton. At present it is necessary to import lamb to meet domestic requirements.

Before you decide on the type of stock, choose the operation you think you will be able to handle. The sheep industry is divided into 3 main categories: 1. Purebred production - Animals are more expensive and require a greater amount of selection and breeding management. Good stock is necessary because you will be competing against established breeders. 2. Feedlot lamb production - Unfinished lambs (about 50 to 75 pounds) are purchased and finished in confinement on hay and grain. Lambs are sold at about 100 pounds.

3. Commercial lamb production - A good flock of crossbred ewes is needed. They are bred to a purebred ram to produce fast-gaining, early-maturing lambs for feedlot producers. This type of operation is most popular with newcomers to sheep raising.

Labor requirements are less than for livestock, but sheep do require good management practices. They require basic shelter with ready access to feed and water. Like any other livestock, sheep will do better with high quality pastures, good hay, and grain.

Newcomers should start on a small scale; those who have no livestock experience should begin with about 25 to 40 ewes (a 1-ram flock). As your experience and confidence in handling sheep increases, you can expand your flock rapidly. The best time to buy sheep is in the late summer and early fall. Ewes will cost $30 to $60, rams from $75 to $125.

Sheep combine the profitable aspects of cattle and swine, without the high capital investments. The market for mutton and lamb is increasing. However, as with other livestock production, you have to be dedicated to successful production to make sheep-raising a profitable enterprise.
