

Friends 'N Neighbors

by Jessie Miller

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stone held a family birthday party to mark the 82nd birthday of their sister - in - law, Mrs. Lydia Stone of South Walpole on November 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gifford and family and Mrs. Arthur Stone drove to St. Catharines on Friday, returning Mrs. Esther Kerslake to her home, she had spent a month with her sister, Mrs. John Awde and other relatives in Jarvis.

The Oyster supper, sponsored by the Jarvis oddfellows and Rebekas in the community hall on Thursday, November 15, was as usual, a grand success. We are told that more than 600 persons enjoyed this fine supper, in spite of the inclement weather.

Mrs. Olga Clifford of Otterville and daughter, Mrs. George Elliott of Little Lake, Ont. visited Mrs. Myrtle Wheeler on Saturday.

There was a shower one evening last week at the Cheapside Hall honoring newly weds, Mr.

Keith and Mrs. Loft-house spent the weekend in Stayner and Collingwood. Rev. E.M. Sider accompanied them to Stayner, he being the guest speaker at the B.I.C. Church Bible Conference on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Winnie Laidlaw, Mrs. Sandy Schwyer, Mrs. Leitha Booth, Rev. and Mrs. Sider accompanied the Selkirk Senior Citizens on their bus trip to Toronto on Thursday. They visited Casa Loma and the Stafford Food Company.

Marty Karl, superintendent of Harbourside Rescue Mission, Hamilton was guest speaker and showed slides of his work at the B.I.C. Church at Cheapside on Sunday evening.

Discuss Rezoning Application

Jarvis council discussed a rezoning application Wednesday night which, if granted, could eventually result in a Chinese Restaurant opening next to the Municipal building.

The application requests that 13 Talbot Street be zoned commercial, rather than its present residential.

Daniel Heise, grandson of Mrs. Ida Heise, with a friend, Mark Chamberlain, students of Messiah College visited in Cheapside over the weekend.

Arthur Pye, principal of Central School, Dunnville visited his aunt and uncle Rev. and Mrs. Earl Sider on his way to Hagersville. The same day Mr. Jack Parsons also called on the Siders and both were surprised and pleased to meet each other there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Osborne and family of Parry Sound visited her parents over the weekend. Harley is head of the Math Department in Parry Sound High School and was on an observational visit to Hagersville Secondary school, to observe its

And, it states a proposed restaurant would operate from the present building after renovation.

Council felt the lot might be too small in order to park the required ten cars and requested to see a plan for the renovated building and lot before considering the application.

Lions Learn About Court

The regular meeting of the Jarvis Lions Club was held on November 12th.

The Anglican Ladies who catered to the last five meetings of the term were thanked by Lion Nick Mantague.

The Cayuga High School Marching Band will receive a cash donation for their participation in the Memorial Day Parade.

Lion Neale Hoover reported that the total cost of the work on the parking lot was $3,891.56.

Lion Warren Keen reported that a pop machine is now on loan to the club from the Coca Cola Company.

The dates for the Minstrel Show have been set at February 28, March 1st and 2nd.

Three new members were inducted into the club, Dennis Craddock, sponsored by George Miller; Bob Fallis, sponsored by Murray Walker and Barry Miller, sponsored by Elmo Field.

District Governor Mort Cooper conducted the installation. He was assisted by Past Zone Douglas Sheppard and father, John Sheppard also spoke briefly.

They were thanked by Lion Jack Cooke. Graydon Sheppard was presented with a token gift and Certificate of Appreciation, and Douglas Sheppard was presented with a token gift.

Jarvis Auction Mart Plans Expansion

The Jarvis Auction Mart is planning to expand.

Fred Pokonzo, owner of the auction centre, appeared before Jarvis Council last Wednesday night to explain his future plans for council's approval.

He proposed to build a 20' by 52' addition on to the existing building to allow for more storage space and the installation of wash-room facilities.

"It won't be anything dilapidated," he told council. And, he estimates construction cost at $6,000.

Council approved the addition.

Four New Firemen For Jarvis

The Jarvis Volunteer Fire Department has taken on four new men now, Cliff McBride told council at last Wednesday night's meeting.

They are Rick Miller, Robert Smuck, Ron Dennis and Dennis Craddock.

Councilor McBride said the department would also need to spend $300 on raid coats, hats and boots for the detachment.

Unemployment Myths

A whole body of myths have been perpetrated by people trying to discredit the Unemployment Insurance Act, Robert Andras, minister of Manpower and Immigration said in Delhi at the beginning of the month.

He corrected many misunderstandings. One is that every claimant received the maximum benefit of $107.

"That is a flat lie," Mr. Andras said. "Only about 13 per cent earn enough to qualify for the maximum."

"And don't forget that under the new Act claimants pay income tax on benefits," he said. In effect, this means no one gets the full $107.

Another myth is that most claimants work only for eight weeks then quit and draw cheques for 52 weeks.

"Almost 97 per cent of our claimants have more than the minimum eight weeks insurable earnings," he said. "In fact, over 70 per cent have more than 20 weeks. And the average duration of a claim is not 51 weeks, but 18."

It is not true that people can quit their jobs whenever they feel like it and start collecting benefits right away.

"Claimants who are fired for misconduct, or who quit their jobs without just cause, can be disqualified from receiving benefits for up to three weeks," Mr. Andras explained.

Combined with the initial two week waiting period, this makes a total of five weeks in which an individual does not receive a penny.

It is time to lay the myths to rest and start talking facts.

And, Mr. Andras said the commission is going to continue pruning back unjustified pay out of benefits.

Categories which will be most closely looked at are:

persons who voluntarily leave their jobs;

persons whose occupational skills are in high demand in their own locality;

women who claim regular benefits after exhausting their 15 week maternity benefits;

persons who go on regular benefits after sickness benefits are exhausted.

Cattle Rustling

They may not ride through the night on horses, sporting black hats and lassos, but Haldimand County is having its problems with cattle rustlers.

The Cayuga Detachment of O.P.P. lay the blame for the increase in the number of offences at the foot of rising meat prices.

Recent investigation by this force revealed that some time between November 4th and 9th, a two - year - old Hereford, pastured in a field north of the Dry Lake Side Road was slaughtered and both hindquarters valued at $300 were removed. The carcass was discovered on November 10, 1973 by the owner, John Campbell of R.R.1, Jarvis.

"It seems that the offenders are experienced persons capable of knowing exactly the type of animals to steal," the detachment says. "The cattle are either butchered on the spot, or more frequently, loaded into a truck and removed from the area for later disposal."

The O.P.P. encourages farmers:

1) To have available a record of ear tags, brand marking and sketches where applicable, of all his livestock.

2) To notify the police immediately if his livestock appear to have strayed, or been stolen.

3) To make frequent checks of livestock pastured in remote fields.

4) To notify the police immediately of any suspicious persons or vehicles possibly involved in rustling activities.

CONTRASTS

What a contrast! Two outstanding events have taken place in recent weeks, both in the English speaking world. Both have captured the highlights in the press and in radio and T.V. coverage. But there the similarity ends and the two events are quite different.

For weeks now the so-called Watergate affair and its various ramifications have occupied public attention -- and well it might. From what has been said in evidence (often contradictory) it appears that the Head of State in the United States of America has surrounded himself with a group of men who commit burglary and other crimes and who appear to have no moral sense, no appreciation of truth, justice, fair play, who knew they were doing wrong yet were not worried about that. All they wanted to do was to "cover up" their misdeeds. Some of their agents are in jail. No one outside the White House seems to know whether the Head of State (the President) knew what was going on, but these men were his chosen, trusted companions. We shall know sometime what is the truth in all this, meanwhile we can only look on in wonder and be thankful that our Head of State (the Governor General) is not likely to get into such a mess.

The other remarkable event was the wedding of the Princess Anne. She is not a Head of State, but her mother is and her mother was very much involved. That wedding was only important for reasons of state (Anne is on the line of succession to the Throne) but also because of the remarkable response made by the people of Great Britain and millions of others all over the world. Some people went the night before and spent the night on the sidewalk, others in Canada and elsewhere, got up at 5.00 a.m. to see it live on T.V. And all they got was a momentary glimpse as she drove by in a horse-drawn carriage. There was, of course, a great military show but very few people would have even gone to see it. The Princess, the Royal Family, was the attraction.

The contrast between the two events points out very clearly the advantages of the monarchical system. In a Republic the President is either a former politician who has been "kicked upstairs" for his political services, or, like Nixon, he is active as a political leader trying to do two men's jobs -- Head of State and Prime Minister. Under the monarchy the Head of State is absolutely out of politics.

Women Candidates

Where are you? We constantly read in the paper complaints from women. Why aren't more women in politics? Why aren't more women appointed to higher positions in government? Why aren't more women serving on school boards? Why aren't more women given ministerial posts? Why aren't more women serving on special committees dealing with area problems? Why?

Why? You aren't running. You aren't working for a position. You aren't even giving it a try?

At a women's luncheon at Kohler in April, Ada Pritchard urged Haldimand County women to get into the political arena and fight for a position. Her comments on the need for women representatives in the field were greeted with applause.

Now, where are you? Nominations for lower and upper - tier positions in Haldimand - Norfolk close tomorrow. Time is running short.
