Land Use Planning

Land use planning is essential to the future of agriculture in Ontario . . . and reasonable food prices.

At present there is land being set aside for housing, industry, and recreation, but little for agriculture. Much of our good farmland is slowly being covered up with concrete and asphalt. Ontario's resources of quality agricultural ands are being reduced to a point where some specialty crops have to be imported. It is this trend which brings out concern for the future of agriculture in Ontario. Earlier this year, the Christian Farmers Federation adopted a policy statement on Land Use Planning.

They are requesting municipal townships to take immediate steps to zone prime land for agriculture so that agriculture will remain a viable industry across the province.

The recommendation is too late for areas already planned for industry in our county, but they certainly are worth considering for the rest of our rural land.

As the organization says, it is the responsibiltiy of local municipalities to preserve good land for agriculture.

Land use planning will result in substantial benefits for agriculture. Farm families will no longer have to compete with land speculators when they buy land. And, Ontario will be able to grow a great variety of foods if it can keep its many types of soils in food production. Local production will restrain the monopoly interests of some foreign producers.

Land use planning should be designed to end speculation in agriculture land. The C.F.F. points out that speculators are driving the price of land up to the point where a farm family cannot purchase land and expect to have a profitable farm. The continuation of this trend will lead to two things - rapidly increasing food prices and more farm renters than owners.

The development of our land should not be left up to the whims and wishes of speculators. For, it is a well know fact that the prices of lots has jumped in certain areas from $2,000 to $15,000 - $20,000 in less than 10 years. This increase would not have been so extreme if our governemts had realized their task in the development of our resources. The C.F.F. has a message - one which our local councils should give some attention.

Core Curriculum

A core curriculum is one in which the children bring apples to school, eat them and plant the cores in the school grounds. They watch them sprout and grow into leaves and blossoms and then fruit. This is Science. They paste pieces of bark and twigs and leaves on paper and they paint pictures of the apples in a dish. This is Art. The children sit around under the tree singing, "In The Shade of The Old Apple Tree." This is Music. They are told the story of Johnny Appleseed. This is Library Study. They climb the tree and pick the apples. This is Physical Education. wormy ones. This is Arithmetic. In their own words, they tell what a tree is and what they felt when they saw the cores turn into trees. They also write letters to the National Apple Growers' Association. This is Language Arts. The gifted children do enrichment research by reading Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" or by finding out about Issac Newton, the Apple of Discord.

apple-y events. They learn about such words as arbor, l'arbre, apfel, baum, manzana. This is Foreign the Garden of Eden, William Tell, and other Languages.

The boys built boxes to store the apples.

This is Industrial Art. The girls bake them, sauce them and pie them. This is Home Economics. Then everyone eats them and learns about their nutritive value. This is Health Education. All this, you will note, without a textbook or workbook. When all the apples are gone, they take the cores once again and plant them in the school grounds and watch them grow and flower and fruit. Pretty soon, you cannot see the school for the trees. This is the End of Education.

PEACOCK POINT Peacock Point has been condemned by the Haldimand-Norfolk Health Unit, the "Environmental Appraisal" and the Haldimand-Norfolk

It is high on the priority list of both the health unit and study for remedial action -This verdict printed in the Lakeshore Study, prepared by Eric Grove, is the cause of much agitation among the resort residents. Some 300 cottages are involved. It has been suggested in the Lakeshore Study that the well constructed buildings could be relocated to the Woodlawn area. The Study shows Peacock Point to have one of the greatest concentrations of pollution, with reason being that sewage affluent is not adequately filtered through the impervious Haldimand clays.

Also, cottages crowded on undersized lots aggravate the situation.
