CHRISTMAS RECESS CUT

The House of Commons will return to business between Christmas and New Year, cutting short a long Christmas recess.

The Liberal Government would like passage of three contentious bills, now in the House, the Emergency Energy Supply legislation, the Election Expenses legislation and the Wire-tapping legislation, before breaking off for an extended recess or pro-rogation.

WHEAT SALES

Otto Lang, Minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board, announced a long-term agreement with Poland, providing for the sale of approximately 36 million bushels of Canadian red wheat, durum wheat, and feed wheat or barley.

The minister has also announced the sale of about 11 million bushels of durum wheat to Algeria.

sumer protection from the federal government. The report accuses Canada's food retailers of a wide range of devious and dishonest selling practices and states that many retailers show little concern for the consumer.

The report not only demands new legislation but also a strengthening of "inspection forces" so that existing laws can be enforced.

FEDERAL OIL POLICY
Manitoba Premier Ed Schreyer has stated that the federal government should exercise its jurisdiction over national energy policy.

"There is a federal jurisdiction over inter-provincial and inter-national movement of energy and it ought to be exercised. If that seems to annoy one or two provinces, too bad. The national interest must take precedence."

TRADE CONCESSIONS

The European Economic Community has offered Canada trade concessions on a number of commodities of interest to Canadians as compensation for the entry of Britain, Ireland and Denmark into the community.

The proposal could affect Canadian exports worth hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

ASTHMA The Reversible Lung Disease

Statistics Canada estimates that as many as one million medical services are provided yearly for Canadians suffering from asthma.

In the hospital area alone nearly 30 thousand asthma cases were treated in 1971, an increase of more than 22 hundred over 1969.

While asthma is seldom cured it can be controlled with a strong liaison between patient and doctor. Continuing research is supplying new data about asthma and new drugs have improved the treatment. Recognizing the need to assist children to control the severity and frequency of their attacks, many Christmas Seal organizations are conducting asthma classes for children.

The classes generally involve youngsters from four to 15 years of age and run from six to ten weeks. The very young children take part in exercise and games programs, the older youngsters in physical activity and a pool period.

He describes asthma as a respiratory disease characterized by an increased irritability of the bronchial tubes and manifested by recurrent attacks of wheezing and shortness of breath. During an attack the muscles surrounding the bronchial tubes go into spasm and constrict the passages, the walls become thickened with oedema or swelling, and increased secretions in the tubes occupy the space urgently required for the movement of air. The outstanding abnormality in the patient with asthma is an unusual increase in the irritability of the bronchial passages. A variety of harmless and relatively mild irritants producing little response in the non-asthmatic, produces a violent response in the airways of the asthmatic.

Asthma has been described as a reversible lung disease in that its victims go from a normal, healthy state to a violent, like-threatening attack and return to normal again.

The funds go to research and health programs to fight these lung crippers, and to combat environmental threats to the lung - air pollution and smoking.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Just to look at Terry you can tell he is a typical six-year-old, full of bounce and mischief.

Terry is tall and slim. Indian in background, a good-looking lad with brown eyes, black hair and light brown skin. He is active and healthy.

Since he has just started school, Terry has not had any academic reports but he is a bright, intelligent youngster who has already learned two languages - Cree and English. If he has any problems in school, it will be because life on a reserve has not given him the knowledge of some of the situations a child may meet in classes and textbooks. But since he is alert and inquisitive, new things are more a challenge than a frustration to him.

Terry is a friendly, outgoing youngster with an easy-going disposition. He loves the outdoors in any season.

Terry needs loving parents who will offer him stimulation, share his interest in outdoor activities and value his heritage.

To inquire about adopting Terry, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.

Some time ago I reported on matic transmission, gets only a new service the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is now providing for motorists - mileage ratings on automobiles. The agency's figures for the 1974 models are based on a simulated 7.3 mile city drive at speeds of up to 57 miles per hour.

Some representative figures: American Motors Gremlin - 15.6 to 15.9 mpg; AMC Matador - 10.0; Chrysler New York - 9.1; Dodge Dart - 16.0; Ford Pinto - 17.7 to 22.8; Chevrolet Vega - 19.6 to 24.6.

For a free copy of all 1974 model tests, write to Fuel Economy, Office of Public Affairs, Environmental Protection Agency, Washington, D.C. 20460.

Readers' questions are welcome and should be sent to Box 5875, London, Ontario.

In the midst of a deepening energy shortage and widespread conservation programs, the mileage performance of the car you're about to buy takes on new importance. Weight and engine size are major factors affecting mileage, of course.

The Toyota Corolla Coupe, at 2,000 pounds with a 71 cubic-inch-displacement two-barrel carburetor engine and a four-speed manual transmission, is rated at 27.1 miles per gallon. On the other hand, a 5,500 pound Lincoln Continental with a 460 CID, 4 bbl carburetor engine and auto-

Motorcyclists are urged by the Ontario Safety League not to hesitate turning on their lights in the daytime. Motorcycle accidents are reduced each time this practice is applied on a large scale. Motorists should learn to recognize a safe and prudent motorcyclist in the rider whose lights are on in the daytime.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture's Board of Directors gives full support to the demands of the Dairy Farmers of Canada for an increase in the support price of butter and skim milk.

The directors, who are farmers from across the province, sent a letter to federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan re - enforcing the request for an additional 2 cents per pound of butter, and 6 cents a pound on skim milk powder.

In the letter they also emphasize the immediate need to give an increase of at least 30 cents per pound of butterfat to farm - separated cream producers. This cream goes directly into butter production.

"It is in the long-term best interest of consumers to maintain a healthy dairy industry in this country" says Delmer Bennett of Forsters Falls. Bennett who is on the provincial executive of the Federation, is a dairy producer.

"Canadians should be eating Canadian - produced butter, but they won't be in the future if they refuse cream producers an adequate return for their work and investment." The price these farmers get for their cream is determined solely by the federal government.

Bennett also points out that the income position of the farm - separated cream producer has deteriorated far below that of industrial and table milk producers. "Farmers cannot produce cream just for the fun of it. They've also got to make a living out of it."

The letter of Whelan demands that these increases be implemented immediately.
