Dangerous Travel

We live in a pretty apathetic society today. It usually takes a serious accident or shocking episode to make us react or take firm steps on our own.
Last Sunday, much of southern Ontario was hit by a freezing rain. On Monday, many of the roads in the west end of Haldimand were dangerous and ice covered. Yet, many buses were travelling their routes to pick up school children.

Reserve buses and six buses under contract to the Haldimand Board of Education did not run because of poor conditions. Some in the west end only covered part of their route before running into problems and returning home. Others arrived at the school behind schedule.

The Record has received several complaints about the way Monday was handled.

* There was no report on CHML early Monday morning saying buses would not run or exams at the high schools would be cancelled.

* Buses were running at the risk of accident and injury to dozens of children riding them.

* Some students who had to write exams found their own way in, in order not to miss them.

According to the Haldimand Board of Education policy, board members confer with their local road superintendent and then phone CHML if there's dangerous driving conditions.

Apparently, it wasn't realized until after the buses had started to run, how bad the roads were on Monday. In the east end of the county, there were no problems at all.

Since the loss of a day of school isn't worth the risk of an accident, we hope this confusion won't be experienced again. And reports will be on the radio early enough for parents to take heed.

Also, families who realize their road is unsafe for travel should contact a board member so they are aware of the problem areas in the county.

Cooperation and care could save a life.

WHY DID IT HAPPEN?

I was walking through the valley. One bright and joyful morning. The cool grass beneath my feet, Soothed my tired, swollen soles. I stood and listened to the song in the trees. As the gentle summer breeze sang through. Nothing was near, nothing at all. There were grasses and flowers. Birds flying by; performing their daily chores. No one was there in the valley at all. A furry black squirrel chattered near by. Telling out: freinds of a good source of food. There was a ground hog not far away. Had just then noticed the day was here. I walked a little farther along the stream; It was peaceful and content laying there. A few fish, I did see, swimming along. Not one seemed to care for the other. The skies grew dark and the winds hastened on. There was a deafening clatter of wings! The birds fell from their graceful glides. The fish in the water fled for their lives! I turned; Only to see that the ground hog and squirrel, Has already been crushed beneath a tree! The valley was dark and everything red! Flames of hatred so high filled the air! The trees were battling one another down. The birds in the sky tore at each other's throats! The flowers and grasses were trampled to death! Everything was joyous a minute ago -- Not a sound arose from the valley below. No one knew what had happened but me. I had just reached the top of the great stone wall; I turned to look over my once happy home, When I too was crushed to the ground! I lay dying alone and wondering Why. . . ?

AIR Quality MONITORS
Ontario Hydro requested permission from Walpole Council to establish six "Air Quality Monitoring Stations" at various points in the township.

Council was prepared to grant permission and asked that two more be established; one at Nanticoke and one at the Peacock Point Area because these are the two most populated areas on Concession 1.

Closing Out Ceremony March 15

At a "ceremony for the closing out of the county of Haldimand" on March 15th, many people affiliated with the county will be presented with commemorative plaques.

Also at the meeting: * Councillors agreed to extend the Board of Education lease in the administrative building at Cayuga for another five years at the same rate as they are presently paying. The Board must provide for their own maintenance and assume responsibility for any decorating.

* Councillors approved a bylaw to authorize the borrowing of $25,000 to meet county expenses until taxes are collected.
* Councillors approved a bylaw to authorize the warden and treasurer to borrow certain sums to meet the cost of work now being carried out under the Public Transportation and Highway Improvement Act.

Funny Isn't It?

When the other fellow takes a long time to do something, he's slow.

But when I take a long time to do something, I'm thorough.

When the other fellow doesn't do it, he's lazy.

But when I don't do it, I'm too busy.

When the other fellow goes ahead and does something without being told, he's overstepping his bounds.

But when I go ahead and do something without being told, that's initiative!

When the other fellow states his side of a question strongly, he's bullheaded.

But when I state my side of a question strongly, I'm being firm.

When the other fellow overlooks a few of the rules of etiquette, he's rude.

But when I skip a few of the rules, I'm original.

When the other fellow does something that pleases the boss, he's polishing the brass.

But when I do something that pleases the boss, that's cooperation.

When the other fellow gets ahead, he sure had the lucky breaks.

But when I manage to get ahead Man! Hard work did that!

Funny, isn't it - or is it!

Electricity May Heal Jawbone Disorders

Electricity could become a new tool for treating dental and bone disorder, if current experiments with animals prove successful.

It is hoped that diseased and injured bone can be restored and crooked teeth straightened through pressures generated electrically.

Gum disease loosens teeth as supporting bone is sucked back.

Toothless patients are often difficult to fit with dentures due to erosion of the jawbone.

At present this bone loss cannot be restored.

It has been found that negative electrodes can stimulate bone production, while positive ones diminish bone formation.

Pressure produces a type of electricity in bone and these experiments may explain how pressure can reshape bone.

Bone specialists in the medical and dental fields have been using pressure for some time.

An orthodontist puts wires on teeth to move them. He knows that the force is transmitted to the supporting bone to realign crooked teeth.

In the detection of electricity produced in bone from forces similar to those exerted by dental appliances may pave the way for bone alterations directly stimulated and controlled by electrical currents.
