By interviewing Mrs. Awde's grade three and four room, we can tell she has her hands full; with 30 active, interested pupils, who wouldn't? With so many different opinions there were many answers to all the questions which were asked.

Some favourite subjects were physical education, reading, art, poetry, writing, doing graphs and even school itself.

Mrs. Awde has many original and creative ideas such as making butter in school, and having a bookworm. With little things like this how can the pupils help themselves from liking either school or Mrs. Awde.

The recipe for the butter was: shake whipping cream, stir, add salt and pour off remaining milk. This was made last Friday. It was eaten with bread, peanut butter and jelly.

The book worm is made by the students. For every book they read and report, a circle with the name of the book is added to make the body of the worm longer. Approximately 170 books have been read.

After listening to the pupils Mrs. Awde was asked if she had anything to say about her students. She said that her students are pretty good - most of the time. We can tell she is proud of her students because of her smile and the way she looks and listens to them.

NEW NATIONS

After the War the British and French empires in Africa fell apart and as a result about twenty new nations were created. Who created these states, marked out their boundaries, decided what their government and economy should be I do not know - - - All I know is that these states were formed and they exist today. Generally speaking I suppose they were largely modelled after the "parent state", English or French, which had ruled over them for so long. On the whole the divisions seem to have been satisfactory. There were a couple of major civil wars and other minor affairs but, seeing that about 20 new states were formed, this was quite an achievement and credit is due to the native leaders and rulers who accomplished this feat.

These men had very little experience in government, all major decisions were made by the European rulers. This made it practically impossible for them to develop a sense of responsibility and they also lacked experience in so many ways.

While they were gaining experience and for other reasons, the national economy suffered from famines and other difficulties so the "affluent nations" - - - Britain, France, Sweden, the U. S. started sending food and other necessities, which helped a great deal. Some of this was sent by government, some by private donations. This, however, is not all that we can do. We can help them build up their own economy. One of the largest givers of aid to Africa is Oxfam. They still send food but they are also actively engaged in supplying the tools and technical experts to help them develop their own economy. This is how they are thinking today: "We're interested in your technology and your markets".

Causyn Opposes Dofasco Development

A Haldimand-Norfolk regional councillor doesn't want Dofasco to build an industrial complex in the Port Burwell area of Elgin County.

And he would like council to study this matter and make a recommendation as to whether they want an industrial complex to the west of H - N.

Township of Norfolk councillor Robert Causyn is concerned about the effect it would have on prime agricultural land in H - N.

There is a prevailing west wind, he explained, and pollution is going to come over "our" farm land and "ruin" it. Also, the people will lose four miles of beach property if Dofasco is allowed to build.

He said he realized the municipal governments in that area are concerned and have zoned the land agricultural.

He urged Haldimand-Norfolk councillors to support them.

Mr. Causyn doesn't like the idea of a Nanticoke complex in the east and a Dofasco complex in the west. If they're going to build, let them do it at Nanticoke and have one conglomerate here, he added.

Water and Sewage

The Haldimand - Norfolk regional council is requesting each area municipality and the Ministry of Environment to continue operation and maintenance of all waterworks, sewage works and solid waste disposal facilities to be run by the region until it has appointed staff and created the necessary organization to manage and direct such operations.

Letters To The Editor

The Editor:

Should a caption be necessary for a letter, the chosen one for this brief letter would be simply "Concerned".

On a recent Saturday, quite late in the afternoon, I assisted a local man, who is beyond the allotted three - score - years - and - ten. I saw him fall on the sidewalk, a short distance from the main intersection of Hagersville, and as soon as it was possible to park my car, I crossed the street and went to his aid. His face was bruised, scraped, cut and bleeding, all resulting from the fall on the cement, (luckily he missed the bumper of a car that was parked nearby).

Since being asked by several to write this letter to the Editor, for all to see, I am asking, why didn't someone who saw the episode, come and assist me with this man? Do people not want to get involved?

I tried in vain, as he would not let me take him home, (even though I assured him I knew his home address). Perhaps he didn't wish to be seen taken home by the "Weaker sex"!!!!

This was certainly one of my not-too-happy experiences of life, especially when I think of our local "intoxicating beverage outlets" would serve a man of this age so much to drink that he could possibly not make it home on his own. Are they only concerned with taking his money for services rendered????

Could a taxi not have been called by them to take this man home from this establishment?

Finally after more than one - half hour of talking to, assisting and persuasion towards this senior citizen, a kind gentleman came along, and responded when I asked for his much-needed assistance.

Hopefully those who "served" this man that Saturday afternoon, will think seriously before letting it happen again, - as perhaps I may not be there to assist him when he falls.

Many who read this will know the writer, since they observed me in a most unfortunate circumstance. However, in order not to embarrass his numerous family members, I wish my identity not be made known through the newspaper media. Sign Me Please. "Concerned".

Hydro Signs Coal Contract

Ontario Hydro has taken a 30 - year coal contract out in the United States to power its thermal generating stations. The bulk of it will be coming to Nanticoke.

In a news release to the Record, Hydro Chairman George Gathercole said the contract is for the entire output of a new coal mine which will be opened in Pennsylvania by United States Steel Corporation.

During the term of the agreement, an estimated 90 million tons - an average of three million a year - will be produced, with deliveries scheduled to begin in late 1976.

The contract for the Cumberland reserve in Greene County is part of Hydro's program to develop assured and economical fuel supplies for its coal burning stations, he explained.

Development of the new mine will require a capital investment of about $120 million for underground and surface facilities, 17 miles of railroad and terminal equipment on the Monongahela River where the coal will be loaded on barges for shipment to the railroad. From there it will move into the integrated train - ship logistical system developed in the 60's to meet Hydro's coal requirements.

Hydro will make an advance payment of $38 million to be used for opening the mine.

Agriculture Canada, Health of Animals Branch, Hamilton, advises that blood samples are presently being drawn on herds of cattle for a Brucellosis Test. Apparently the area test will be outdated by August 1974. Herds where milk is shipped are exempt because regular testing of milk samples is done. Also exempt are those beef herds where a percentage of the cows are slaughtered at an inspected plant each year. Once completed the present test will up - date the health status of cattle in the county for another five years.
