Behind Closed Doors

Hiding behind the cloak of "Committee of the Whole" is one bad habit regional council seems to have adopted.

Committee of the Whole, in the eyes of our council, means all members of the press and citizens seated in the gallery must be kicked out of the council chambers while elected representatives debate a question amongst themselves.

Three meetings ago, it was the salary issue. Last meeting - the concept of a new town site. I agree there is a need occasionally for employing the secretive method of "committee of whole" when discussing personnel situations; problems which could unnecessarily hurt someone; land plans which could hinder the development of cheap housing due to speculation, etc.

However, this doesn't apply to councillor salary discussion. Since it's the ratepayer who provides the remuneration, and not the region, the ratepayer does have the right to be part of salary negotiations, hear the pros and cons for the stipend and councillor justification for the money they've approved themselves.

Last Thursday's discussion was another area the public is vitally interested in. Will we have the future population to justify a new city or can existing towns cope?

If it had been a debate on the city site, there would have been more cause for closing the public out in order to prevent further land speculation (although there isn't a great deal of property left in the area that isn't under option for a city).

But councillors' discussion was based on the feasibility of a new city.

Surely the public can know and has the right to know the why (in detail) behind such an important move by council. After all, a new city will affect everyone - in one way or another.

Bits 'n Pieces

Haldimand Page

Town of Haldimand council is probably the only one in the regional municipality of Haldimand - Norfolk who can boast its own suitable attire page.

At Monday night's meeting, councillor Robert Gordon turned up ready to wait on council, complete with white gloves, white shirt, blue jacket and black bow tie.

He carried the motions from the councillors desks to the mayor and performed other errands throughout the evening.

Mr. Gordon assumed this duty jokingly at a previous meeting because councillors were running around the desks in the chambers in order to get motions to the head.

Letter To The Editor

Minor Softball, WHY?

What is the meaning of sports competition for boys and girls of all ages? Well I can tell you of my feelings towards softball and benefits that I have derived from this sport.

Sports competition for all ages helps to strengthen that person's social, mental and physical character. But most important, I feel, are the benefits that are obtained by involvement in minor sports by you, the readers, whether you be male or female, young or a little older.

The people I have met and have had dealings with in softball have been very dear to me. Most of the people I have dealt with have become good friends of mine and maybe even there are a few enemies, but those few don't worry me.

Some of you readers may or may not know who I am. I am the Secretary - Treasurer for the Erie Softball League, Minor boys division. My reasons for writing this article to you readers is to try and explain the heading on this article.

Friends, I ask you, is it fair for the same few interested parents and co-workers to do all the work. Is it fair and proper for these few coaches, managers, umpires and co-workers to have to be unassisted when other people's children are involved. I say "NO", because I have known many coaches and managers that give of their time freely and willingly to help youngsters develop their skills, not only in softball but also hockey and other recognized sports in the various communities' recreational programs. But as years speed onward, there is a trend I can see coming; that is, if extra help is not obtained in different communities, the cost per child for these sports are going to be greatly increased. Why? Because if the same few have to do all the work all the time, they will need monetary reimbursement for all the time they spend helping our leaders of tomorrow.

Therefore, I ask you all when the time comes to give a helping hand, please do so and help reap some of the benefits for yourselves from your involvement in minor sports. Every year seems the same, much planned and only a few hands to help. Let us now then put the old expression to good use "Many hands make light work".

So friends, you readers, let's get busy and help out a little because there are many jobs to do if we want to aid our next generation and also want to fight this kind of inflation. Helpers are always needed for added coaching, managing, umpiring, grounds keeping, caretaking, transporting of children to and from games, etc.

So get involved, Respect comes faster to those who are "Doers" than those who are the "Sitters".

Respectfully yours, Jake Schaeffer, Erie Softball League, Minor Boys Division.

Jarvis P.S. Report

by Sandra Druyff and Jean Reu

The beginning of spring means the beginning of softball. Mr. Mackereth hasn't decided on the school teams yet, but we do have Intermural Softball consisting of three Intermediate and Junior boys teams and four Intermediate and Junior girls teams. The Intermural game will start in May.

On April 17 the West Haldimand schools had a Song Fest. Our school also participated with two choirs; Primary and Senior.

The Primary choir sang two songs, Super-califragilisticexpialidocious and chim-chim-cheree.

The Senior Choir sang three songs; Trampling, Arkansas Traveller and Jamaica Farewell.

I quote Mr. Mackereth who said, "A fine performance and a credit for their hard work. All members will receive crests. Special thanks to Mrs. Hall" (Choir leader).

Federation News

by Otto Crone

Ontario's treasurer read his budget on April 9. The only item in the budget affecting farmers is a change in succession duties on family farms. The basic exemption of $100,000 below which the estate is not taxable has been increased to $150,000.

However, taking the increasing speculative land values into consideration, the real increase will be minimal.

One major item in the tax budget concerning land which got a lot of attention is the speculative land tax. However, judging by the activity of speculators in Haldimand county, they must have read the budget carefully, and find they can live with it, as there are exemptions of that tax if the land is resold for a number of purposes and it would not be hard to fall into one of them. Also the 20% land transfer tax is forgivable if the property is resold to Canadians for development.

Farmers who are being approached by speculators in the county with offers to purchase must read it very carefully; or if they are not familiar with land transactions and legal documents, should get someone else to read it and explain all the implications so that they are clearly understood before a signature goes on the dotted line.
