There's a new taste sensation in Jarvis to tickle discerning taste buds -- the Jarvis Hotel.

Every Wednesday, the Record staff goes out for lunch (making us dining out connoisseurs!) and last week we decided to try out the Jarvis Hotel, which was recently started serving hot meals from noon to midnight.

To say the least, we were pleasantly surprised.

Anyone who makes a habit of eating out regularly, knows that most restaurants serve processed vegetables. They either come out of the can or out of the freezer. Not so at the Jarvis Hotel. The taste alone assures you that all vegetables--including potatoes--are fresh. The carrots, peas and corn almost squelch with homegrown flavour.

It is very rare that you find an eating establishment which serves fresh vegetables, and when you do, it is a place to be remembered. Obviously, if the restaurant goes to the trouble of preparing fresh vegetables, you know that the meat and everything else they serve is also of good quality.

The price is right at the Jarvis Hotel, too. Roast beef dinner, so tender you don't need a knife to cut it, goes for $2.35. Beef or chicken stew, with huge chunks of meat and an excellent sauce, is priced at $2. The cabbage rolls, at $2, have to be tasted to be believed. The rolls bulge with filling and are accompanied by a unique sauce. All servings are man-sized, so no matter how hungry you are, the Jarvis Hotel can appease your appetite.

Other dishes are available, but we haven't got around to eating our way through all of them just yet. There are only so many Wednesdays in a week! If you happen to be in a hurry, all meals are on takeout order as well.

As an added attraction, you may order an alcoholic beverage with your meal, or choose coffee, tea, or milk. Air-conditioned comfort is also a big plus. It may not mean much to you, but to the Record staff, air-conditioning is a big treat!

Bright new uses for Ontario's garbage.

Some time next year, Ontario is going to turn garbage into light.

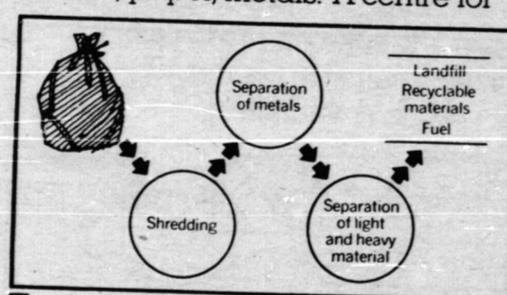

The transformation is called "Watts from Waste" and it's sponsored by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment, Ontario Hydro and Metro Toronto.

It's just one part of the Ministry's garbage recycling program to turn garbage into a valuable resource.

How recycling works.

As garbage is shredded and various elements separated, a waste is produced which can be burned as fuel in Toronto hydro generating stations.

The same basic process will also produce fuel for steam heating and cooling systems, fuel for cement kilns, landfill, paper, metals. A centre for advanced research will investigate future end uses for garbage.

Where it's happening.

The Ministry has already inaugurated Ontario's first centre in North York. In the next two years, centres will be built to serve Sudbury, London, Peel, Halton, Metro Toronto and south eastern Ontario.

In 15 years, we'll have centres right through the province with a transportation system and transfer stations to keep the network flowing. They'll recycle 90 per cent of Ontario's garbage--everything from abandoned cars to organic waste.

Why it's happening.

The people of Ontario--all of us--pile up garbage at three times the rate that the population increases. Although the Ministry is working on ways to reduce that amount, we'll always have garbage. And it's getting harder to find dumping sites and the landfill necessary to cover those sites.

When garbage is being fully recycled, dumping problems won't exist. But there's a more serious problem. When we throw garbage away, we throw away valuable resources.

Recycling, in a community of 100,000, will mean a saving of up to 30,000 tons of paper and cardboard a year; 700 tons of aluminum, copper, lead and zinc; 15 acres of land that would otherwise be used for dumping.

Our program is considered one of the most advanced in the world.

We've got everything we need to make it work--the ideas, the knowledge, the commitment, and the garbage.
