

The Jarvis Record

Established 1878

Volume 98 Issue 46

The Jarvis Record, Thursday Nov. 27, 1975

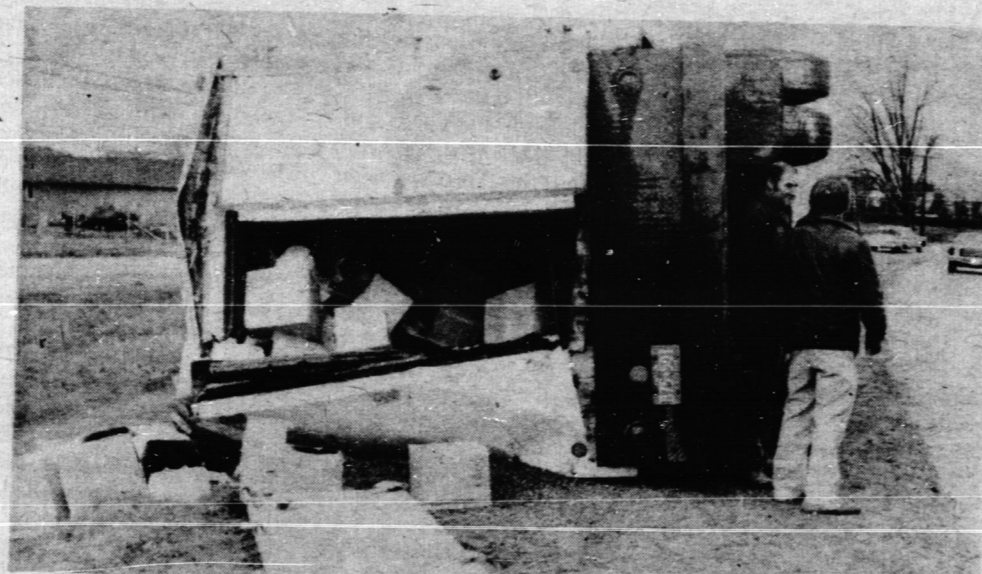

Winter Fun

Nina D'andreamatteo, 3, isn't letting the size of the shovel keep her from cleaning off the front walk of her parent's home in Jarvis.

This wintry scene is a sure sign that balmy days are gone.

Cases that have broken open lay strewn on the side of highway as drivers of vehicles await the arrival of the police.

TRUCK SKIDS ON WET ROAD

Butter, spilling from an overturned truck, became strewn about a ditch on Highway 3 just east of Delhi last Friday morning. Truck driver, John Latmour, 43, said that a car in front of him slowed down, forcing him to hit the brakes, causing his vehicle to skid and overturn. The refrigerated truck was carrying 156 cases of butter with each case weighing about 56 pounds. J.B. Jackson Ltd., Simcoe, is the owner of the vehicle. O.P.P. Constable N.J.A. Takacs, investigating officer, said that there were no injuries.

Canadian Foresters

The Canadian Foresters held their 16th Annual Provincial Assembly at the Park Motor Hotel at Niagara Falls, Mar. 14-15 with a large number attending.

$3,878 was donated by the Courts at the banquet Saturday night to Cancer research. $2,740 was also raised and presented to the Niagara Penn. Crippled Children's Clinic at St. Catharines for a chair lift and other items for the clinic.

250 guests sat down to a delicious banquet. A dance was enjoyed by all after the banquet.

Paul Kidd Comment

A police force is only as good as its public image. When that image becomes tarnished, it is time to probe beneath the surface.

And it would appear that the public appearance of the Haldimand-Norfolk Regional Police Department could do with such a close examination.

Simcoe Mayor Alfted Judd says that there are a lot of people who are very concerned about the police department. He himself is concerned about efficiency of the department, about recent reports of police brutality, and about the results of an Ontario Provincial Police investigation into the department.

It is encouraging that Police Chief Arthur McCart has just called for an Ontario Police Commission investigation because of conflict among executive officers of the seventy-one-member force. A regional police commission hearing will be held in Cayuga tomorrow.

But it seems to me that there is so much suspicion hanging over the Haldimand-Norfolk police department that a mere commission hearing is not enough. Thus I agree with Mayor Judd's call for a judicial inquiry into the activities of the force.

For such a truly impartial probe is urgently needed to satisfy a growing number of questions from the public, about the Haldimand-Norfolk police department.

The above commentary was delivered last week on Channel 11 by CHCH-TV news commentator Paul Kidd.

-Editor

OPP Report

Hagersville - The Ontario Provincial Police received a call on November 18 regarding the theft of a drilling truck valued at $3,000. The vehicle was stolen from Concession 5, Walpole Township. It was recovered at Laurie's Scrap Yard, Hagersville, on November 20.

Dunnville - A break in on November 19 at the Luckens garage, Highway 3, Dunnville, netted thieves $684 worth in numerous tools.

During the past week, three breakins with theft, two thefts, and 60 general occurrences were investigated by officers of the Cayuga Detachment. Four charges were laid under the Liquor Control Act.

Collisions investigated totaled 17 motor vehicles with three persons injured.

PUNCH LINE OF THE WEEK

