Way needs through the Chamber of Commerce news bulletin. Keith Montgomery reported similar success in making use of the Ontario Marketing Boards' newsletter to reach tobacco farmers. Vice-President Bob Boswell will convene the budget meetings together with Keith Simpson. His committee will include bankers, businessmen and accountants who are charged with the responsibility of scrutinizing all financial requests made by member agencies. They are expected to complete this job in the next four weeks and recommend a financial target in time for the June 25 meeting. In order to deal with requests for financial assistance which come prior to the fall campaign, by-laws are going to have to be added to the present constitution giving the executive such powers. Accordingly, the June 25 meeting will be open to any and every contributor to the United Way. It will be held in the Moose Hall, Simcoe, at 7:30 p.m.

The President, Rev. Clifford Waite commended

the board members on their interest and enthusiasm and paid a tribute to the volunteer. There are many Happy Joes in our society who do not want to become involved, he said, but you people who give your time and effort absolutely gratis, are the backbone of the community. You care enough to become committed to a job greater than yourself. It is the local volunteer who knows and understands what is best for his own community. I hope the volunteer will never be replaced by the bureaucrats of government.
