Tree Planting

White Oaks school invited Gordon Miller to participate in their silver jubilee celebrations as a silver maple is planted to commemorate the day. Miller is shown here shovelling as a students told the students Thursday at the school. Les Horne, superintendent of the village, told the students something of the meaning of the day while Miller described the significance of the queen in our governmental system. Miller presented the flag, legion president Ink Kincaid presented the queen's portrait and Mrs. J. Ireland, principal of the school presented medals commemorating the occasion. Students of the school created the appropriate atmosphere with their own paintings of the queen as well as other art works celebrating on the monarchy.
